Correspondence respecting the Expulsion of Messrs. Edward, Wingate, and Smith, from the Austrian Dominions.

No. 1.

Earl Granville to the Earl of Westmorland.

My Lord, Foreign Office, January 27, 1852.

REPORTS have appeared in the public papers, that a Mr. Edward, who had proceeded to Lemberg on a mission to convert the Jews, and Messrs. Wingate and Smith, who were similarly employed at Pesth, had been expelled the Austrian Dominions; and I have to instruct your Lordship to ascertain the truth of these reports.

I am, &c.

The Rev. A. Moody Stuart to Earl Granville.

My Lord, Wood's Hotel, Furnival's Inn, February 2, 1852.

AS convener of the Committee of the Free Church of Scotland for the conversion of the Jews, I beg respectfully to request, for a deputation from that church, an interview with your Lordship on behalf of our missionaries in Austria, who, after ten years' quiet residence, have been summarily expelled from the dominions without cause assigned.

A few minutes will suffice to state the case, and it will greatly oblige us if you will kindly name an hour either on Thursday or Friday,* as we are waiting in town for that sole object.

I have, &c.

Statement presented to Earl Granville on the part of the Committee of the Free Church of Scotland for the Conversion of the Jews.

My Lord,

THE Free Church of Scotland believing in common with all Christians, that there is no name given under heaven by which men can be saved but that of Jesus Christ, have established missions for the conversion of the Jews to the Christian faith in various countries, and amongst others in Austria, where Jews are very numerous. Such a mission was commenced in Pesth in 1841 by the Church of Scotland, with the knowledge and approbation of His Imperial Highness the Viceroy of Hungary, and has been continued ever since by the same missionaries, with the same sanction, under the Free Church of Scotland, with the exception of a short interval during the civil commotions of 1848, when their missionaries, the Rev. Messrs. Wingate and Smith, retired for a season to avoid all imputation of intermingling in political matters, with which directly or indirectly they have never interfered. During all this time they have transgressed no law of the country, nor has such an allegation ever been made against them; they have conducted themselves in the most inoffensive manner, and have, by their quiet and consistent conduct, gained the respect and affection of a large portion of the community. In the lifetime of the late Palatine they always enjoyed his confidence and protection, and since his death, have been uniformly frank and open in giving account of their objects and labours to the constituted authorities when required. Their mission from the first having embraced the supply of religious ordinances to the British residents, they have preached regularly every Lord's-day to those residents, numbering at the commencement about 400 souls, though now greatly reduced by causes known to the British Government; but by the recent proceedings of the Austrian Government, this, which was the only Divine service in the English language in Hungary, has been suppressed. They have also preached in German to the converts from Judaism, who have however formed no new Church, but have been received as members of the sanctioned Protestant communities. They have distributed Bibles and other religious books in Hebrew and other languages, but in so doing have adapted their proceedings to all existing laws; and under their care a large school has sprung up, superintended by a Jewish convert, and attended by 350 children, about 300 of whom are Jews, the rest Protestants, and no Roman Catholics.

In these circumstances, after ten years' peaceable residence, which, by the law of the country, entitles a stranger to be treated as a citizen, Messrs. Wingate and Smith were, on the 15th of January, summarily and without cause assigned, dismissed from Pesth and the Austrian Dominions, after six days' definite notice, it having been intimated to them, that if they did not depart on the prescribed day, they should be forcibly expelled. They are both married, have children of tender age; and both presented medical certificates, attesting that a journey over so great a breadth of country in the depth of winter, and in the sickly state of several members of their families, would be attended with danger to health and life. The brief warning amounted to a virtual confiscation of a great part of their property; but this loss they regarded as trifling when compared with the risk incurred by their families, for whose sake even a short respite would have been welcomed as an inestimable boon; but that was cruelly denied them.

The Committee are not so definitely informed of the particulars of the case of the Rev. Mr. Edward, who in similar circumstances, and after three years' residence, has been ordered to leave Lemberg, the capital of Gallicia, but has not reached England; we know, however, that in the course of last year, the highest authority in the province, after special examination, professed full satisfaction with the purely religious character of his labours, and sanctioned the continuance of them among the Jews. The Committee are not aware that in doing so Mr. Edward has transgressed the limit assigned him, but he has in like manner been ordered out of the Austrian Dominions with his family, in a state still more unfit for travelling, and, as they are informed, to the danger of their lives. But at this moment they do not know where he is, or in what circumstances he may be placed.

Your Lordship is therefore respectfully and urgently requested to take such steps on the part of Her Majesty's Government as may seem befitting, to vindicate the rights of these missionaries as British subjects, and to procure redress for the loss and injury they may have sustained, restoration to the spheres of their inoffensive and useful labours, and protection to their interests and persons, while engaged in a lawful and holy cause.

In the name and by appointment of the before-named Committee.

The Earl of Westmorland to Earl Granville.—(Received February 7.)

My Lord, Vienna, February 3, 1852.

WITH reference to your Lordship's despatch of the 27th January, instructing me to inquire into the truth of the reports in the public papers, that a Mr. Edward, residing in Lemberg, and Messrs. Wingate and Smith, residing in Pesth, had been expelled from the Austrian Dominions, I have to state that on the 30th of last December I received a letter from Mr. Edward from Lemberg, but without date, inclosing an order he had received from the police, dated the 17th of December, and directing him to leave the Austrian States by the 1st of January. Mr. Edward stated also the grounds upon which he claimed my interference to get this order rescinded.

I immediately wrote to Mr. Edward, saying I would bring his case before the Government, but I feared, as only one day remained before the period would expire during which he was to leave the country, that he would have quitted it before my interference could be of any avail.

I then lost no time in calling upon Baron Werner, and in bringing Mr. Edward's case before him, and I left him with the two memorandums, copies of which, as well as of my private letter to Mr. Edward, I have the honour of inclosing. Baron Werner assured me the case should be immediately submitted to the Minister of the Interior, by whom he afterwards informed me it had been transmitted to Lemberg, with an order that it should be reported upon.

A few days afterwards Mr. Edward arrived in Vienna and called upon me, when I informed him of the steps I had taken, and expressed my satisfaction at finding the order of the police had not been carried out, and that he still was within the Austrian territories, and I told him he must now await the result of the information the Government had called for from Lemberg.

A day or two after this interview Mr. Edward requested I would get him permission to return to Lemberg, where his family was residing, and I spoke to General Prince Edmond Schwarzenberg, who commands in chief in Gallicia, who told me he would facilitate the desire of Mr. Edward, and since that time

I have heard nothing further from that gentleman, and I suppose he has returned to Lemberg and is still residing there.

With respect to Messrs. Wingate and Smith, I did not see those gentlemen, but they called upon Mr. Grey, and they confined their application to him to be allowed to leave the country without molestation from the police; and the Minister of the Interior, M. Bach, upon application having been made to him by Mr. Grey and afterwards by myself, complied with their request. I conclude, therefore, these gentlemen, from whom I have not since had any communication, have left the country without further interference and in the manner they desired.

Memorandum by the Earl of Westmorland.

December 31, 1851.

THE Rev. Daniel Edward is a Presbyterian minister, and has been employed for above seven years by the Society for the Conversion of the Jews, to carry out their missionary objects in Moldavia. He has since 1848 resided at Lemberg in the discharge of these duties; and he states that being wholly unconnected in any way with political objects, he has several times been called before the police authorities of that town, when inquiries have been made as to the devotional meetings which he held in his house on Sunday afternoons. In May 1851 he obtained, however, on application to Prince Schwarzenberg, the Military Commander, permission to continue these devotional meetings without molestation; and he now incloses a document from the Lemberg police, dated the 17th December, by which that permission is rescinded, and he is ordered to quit the country in thirteen days.

Mr. Edward's unqualified disavowal of any connexion whatever with political subjects, and avers that he employs himself solely in the discharge of his Christian duties; and he prays the Government of His Imperial Majesty to grant him leave to prosecute them without further molestation.

The Earl of Westmorland to Baron Werner.

My dear Baron Werner, Vienna, January 7, 1852.

IN referring to the communication I made to you of the complaint of the Rev. Mr. Daniel Edward on the subject of the order he had received to leave Lemberg, I now inclose a certificate that gentleman has received from the Lutheran superintendent of that town and district, which testifies in favour of the manner in which he exercised his religious duties.

This gentleman is arrived in Vienna, and he proposes to apply to the Minister of the Interior, with the view of bringing his case before him, which he hopes will be supported by a favourable testimony to his character by Prince Schwarzenberg, the Commander-in-chief of Gallicia.

Believe me, &c.

Mr. Russell to the Rev. D. Edwards.

Sir, Vienna, December 31, 1851.

I WRITE by desire of Lord Westmorland, to say that he had only this day received your letter, which is without date; but he is desirous you should be aware that it only reached him this the last day of the year, and the last day on which, according to the police order you have transmitted him, you would have permission to remain in Lemberg; he fears, therefore, any application he makes to the Austrian Government will be too late to be of use to you; he will, however, make the application you desire, and if he should receive a reply before hearing again from you, he will forward it according to the address you have transmitted to him.

No. 5.

The Hon. A. Kinnaird to Earl Granville.

Dear Lord Granville, Pall Mall East, February 7, 1852.

HEREWITH, according to your request, I inclose the statement respecting the Rev. Daniel Edward, as far as we are at present informed; also a memorandum of the losses sustained by the Free Church of Scotland in the persons of their missionaries, Messrs. Wingate and Smith.

We do not look upon this question so much in a pecuniary light, still the charges set forth by no means cover all the losses caused by this sudden expulsion. Mr. Smith loses almost all that he possessed, and even if he receive the compensation sought for, that sum would not enable him to re-establish himself in his former position.

All the members of the deputation, especially the missionaries themselves, are deeply sensible of the kind reception you gave them and the interest you seemed personally to take in their case, and at the same time are quite aware of the peculiar difficulties of the case, in dealing with such a Government as that which at present administers the affairs of the Austrian Empire.

Believe me, &c.

Inclosure 1 in No. 5.

Memorandum for Earl Granville, regarding the Rev. Daniel Edward, Missionary to the Jews in Lemberg, Gallicia.

My Lord,

WE, the undersigned, when at Vienna, in our way from Pesth in Hungary, learned that the Rev. Mr. Edward had been there a few days before, endeavouring to get a reversal of the order to leave Lemberg. One of the reasons assigned for at least delay was, that Mrs. Edward expected to be confined in a month, and that travelling from Gallicia, where there are no railways, at this season of the year, is attended with much inconvenience and exposure. Mr. Edward's children are also of tender age. At an interview he obtained with his Excellency Dr. Bach, Minister of the Interior, he was unable to obtain a reversal of the order, in so far as the Imperial sanction to a Jewish mission in Gallicia was refused, but a promise was given by Dr. Bach, of permission to return to his family. On sending his passport, however, the following day for the visé, the passport office informed him that their instructions were not to permit his return, but to send him beyond the frontiers. Mr. Edward, assisted by friends, had again to proceed to the British Embassy, and through their interposition, as we understood about an hour before the train started, obtained permission to return, accompanied, however, by an order to quit Lemberg forthwith with his wife and family, and leave the Austrian territory. There can be no doubt that the removal from Austrian Poland at the most inclement period of the year in a country without railroads, or any suitable winter conveyance for travellers accustomed to the comforts of civilized society, is dangerous to the health and life of Mrs. Edward and their two young children. It may be mentioned that so far as we know, they are the only British subjects in Gallicia. Further, Mr. Edward's remaining in Lemberg was recently, after full inquiry, sanctioned by his Excellency the Governor Prince Schwarzenberg.

So soon as any additional intelligence reaches the Free Church of Scotland, your Lordship will be duly informed of it. Mr. Edward was last seen in Vienna on the 13th ultimo. We have, &c.

Earl Granville to the Hon. A. Kinnaird.

My dear Kinnaird, Foreign Office, February 13, 1852.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 7th, and I have to inform you with reference to its contents, that I have embodied in a despatch to Lord Westmorland, accompanied by such observations as the nature of the case appeared to me to require, the statement relative to the treatment experienced by Messrs. Wingate and Smith, which was presented to me the other day, and the estimate of the losses sustained by those gentlemen which you have now been so good as to send me.

Earl Granville to the Earl of Westmorland.

My Lord, Foreign Office, February 17, 1852.

A DEPUTATION from the Protestant Alliance, the Free Church of Scotland, and the Scottish Reformation Society, consisting of the noblemen and gentlemen whose names I inclose,* waited upon me a few days since for the purpose of submitting to me a statement as to the circumstances attending the expulsion of the Rev. Messrs. Wingate and Smith from the Austrian Dominions.

It appears from this statement, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith are missionaries from the Free Church of Scotland for the conversion of the Jews; that they established themselves in the year 1841 at Pesth, with the knowledge and approbation of His Imperial Highness the then Viceroy of Hungary, and that they continued ever since to reside there except during a short period in the year 1848, when they retired for a season in order to avoid any imputation of meddling in the political troubles which then agitated Hungary.

It further appears that during the whole of the time that they have resided in Hungary they have transgressed no law, and have conducted themselves with universally admitted propriety; that in the lifetime of the late Palatine they always enjoyed his protection; and that since his death they have uniformly given to the constituted authorities every information as to their proceedings and objects.

It moreover appears that in their several ministrations they adhered strictly to all existing laws, and that their converts from Judaism were uniformly received as members of the Protestant communities which are sanctioned by the Austrian Government, and that they scrupulously abstained from interference with the Roman Catholic persuasion.

After having thus passed ten years peaceably in the country, Messrs. Wingate and Smith were, on the 15th of January, summarily, and without cause assigned, dismissed from Pesth, and were compelled within six days to dispose of their property, and with their wives and families to depart in the depth of winter from their homes.

Although it is not for Her Majesty's Government to suggest what amount of religious toleration should be exercised in Austria, and although Her Majesty's Government are aware that measures as rigorous as the above have at different times been applied both to Protestant Austrian subjects, and to foreigners not subjects of Her Majesty; and although Her Majesty's Government have therefore abstained from making a formal demand for redress, yet Her Majesty's Government cannot think it possible that the Austrian Government should have been acquainted with the particulars stated above, when they ordered the hasty expulsion of these unoffending persons; and I have therefore to instruct you, in bringing the matter under the notice of Prince Schwarzenberg, to leave it to the good feelings of the Austrian Government to decide whether they think fit to afford any compensation to these persons for the bodily sufferings entailed on themselves and their families by their sudden removal at this inclement season, and for the loss of property inflicted on them by the forced sale, amounting almost to confiscation, of their effects.

Inclosed your Lordship will find a memorandum* of these losses which has been furnished to me by the parties. I have no means of estimating the correctness of the estimate, although from its small amount and the respectable character of the applicants I have little doubt of its correctness.

Free Church of Scotland Committee for Promoting Christianity among the Jews, Edinburgh, February 25, 1852.

My Lord,

IN the name of the Free Church of Scotland Committee above named, I had lately the honour of presenting to Lord Granville a statement regarding Messrs. Memorandum.

Edinburgh, February 25, 1852.

THE Rev. David Edward was sent by the Free Church of Scotland to Lemberg in 1848, to aim at the conversion of the Jews, of whom there are many thousands in that city. During his residence there he has frequently been summoned before the local authorities and examined regarding his designs and labours, which have always been openly avowed, and been met as to bear the severest scrutiny. Nothing of a political character has ever been laid to his charge, which makes a wide distinction between his case and that of the German Catholics, and his whole proceedings in the purely religious work that occupied him have been distinctly authorized by law. On the 18th of December, 1851, he received a peremptory order to quit the country, and the laws which guaranteed all the religious liberty he had used, were not abrogated till the end of the same month; so that his conduct was not only irreproachable as tested by the highest Christian standard, but altogether inoffensive, as tried by the particular institutions of the country in which he resided.

But when dismissed from Gallicia, Mr. Edward was conducting his labours under still more special authority. In May 1851, having been prohibited by the police to continue the Divine Service conducted by him at his own house on the Sabbath evenings, he appealed to Prince Schwarzenberg, the Military Governor of Gallicia, and was thereafter officially invited to read a letter from the Prince stating that he had inquired and come to the conclusion that Mr. Edward was honestly prosecuting his professed object, that he considered that object laudable, and enjoined that his meetings for worship should be in nowise interfered with or disturbed. Mr. Edward was thus acting not only according to law, but under the express sanction of the highest authority in the province, when on the 18th of December he was ordered to quit the country before the end of the month, under pain of being disgracefully sent away. By this order only thirteen days were allowed both to make all preparations for departure and to remove his family beyond the borders, a distance of between 400 and 500 miles, at a season usually of intense cold, and with his family in a state most unfit for the journey. When Mr. Edward objected against so harsh a proceeding, that he had transgressed neither the laws of the country, nor the permission granted to him personally, the only trespass alleged against him in reply, was, that eighteen months ago he had preached at a village four miles from the city, whereas his permission extended only to Lemberg. The said village, however, is a colony of Protestant Germans reckoned to the Lemberg congregation, and Mr. Edward while residing there for a few months had preached with the consent and approval of the Lutheran Superintendent, to whose diocese it belongs and by whom certificates to that effect were presented to the Ministry both of Worship and of Foreign Affairs.

In the hope of having the arbitrary decree against him reversed or modified, Mr. Edward repaired to Vienna, but there he not only applied in vain for relief, but was at first refused permission to return for his family, which at last he obtained with the greatest trouble and after waiting for it a whole day at the police office. From the British Embassy he received neither assistance nor sympathy.

By this summary dismissal Mr. Edward has been compelled to leave his house and furniture in the hands of strangers, but he has not made, and is most averse to make, any statement of the loss he has sustained, because he regards that as no important element in the case. He also desires that no complaint be made of the hardships to which his family have been subjected, but it must at least be stated that their treatment has been harsh in the extreme, and that it can only be ascribed to causes beyond the control of Austrian authority that the injury of their health has not been aggravated by the sacrifice of life.

They were four days, travelling thirteen hours a-day, of reaching Cracow, and notwithstanding the unusual clemency of the weather they all suffered severely, Mrs. Edward was extremly shattered, and the eldest child took very ill on the road, so as not yet to be recovered. The morning they left Cracow Mrs.

Edward looked so low and sinking as to excite the compassion of strangers, and when they reached Breslau at night, she sunk from pure fatigue to the ground, on the threshold of the hotel.

The Earl of Westmorland to Earl Granville.—(Received February 29.)

My Lord, Vienna, February 24, 1852.

WITH reference to your Lordship's despatch of the 27th ultimo, upon the subject of the missionaries Messrs. Smith and Wingate, I have already drawn up a memorandum detailing the case of these gentlemen, and the hardships they complain of; and I hope to-morrow to be able to place it in the hands of Prince Schwarzenberg.

The statement of the hardships those gentlemen complain of, and of the compensation they ask for, amounting to 473*l.*, was not made to me, as your Lordship will learn from my despatch of the 3rd instant, upon their passage through Vienna, which will naturally render it more difficult to obtain for them the redress they require.

The Earl of Westmorland to Earl Granville.—(Received March 6.)

My Lord, Vienna, February 28, 1852.

I HAVE the honour of inclosing a copy of the memorandum which I have this day placed in the hands of Prince Schwarzenberg, upon the subject of the claims of Messrs. Smith and Wingate, for compensation for the losses incurred by them in consequence of their removal from Pesth, by the orders of the Hungarian authorities.

I have not accompanied this memorandum with the estimate which these gentlemen have made of their losses, because, although most anxious to obtain for them the full amount of that estimate, I am afraid if it was put forward at once it might militate against any acknowledgment of the principle of compensation; and the grounds for this apprehension are, that in a private conversation with the Under-Secretary of State, Baron Werner, when I mentioned a sum of from 400*l.* to 500*l.* sterling, as a probable amount of the losses which might have been suffered, he at once exclaimed against it as beyond what his Government would agree to; and also because I fear an objection might be taken to refund the expenses of the journey of these gentlemen to England, and to the transport of their effects, which it might be argued they must have incurred at any time when they returned home, and could in no way be effected by the short period allowed them to prepare for their journey.

If the principle of compensation to these gentlemen is allowed by the Austrian Government, the amount of that compensation may then be made a subject of discussion.

Prince Schwarzenberg received the memorandum with the assurance that it should be taken into the most earnest consideration; but he added, that being very little informed with regard to the circumstances of the removal of these gentlemen, he must submit it to the Hungarian Government under the Archduke Albert, from whom he should receive the necessary explanations.

Memorandum by the Earl of Westmorland.

MESSRS. WINGATE and Smith are missionaries from the Church of Scotland for the conversion of the Jews. They established themselves in the year 1841 at Pesth, with the knowledge and approbation of His Imperial Highness the late Viceroy of Hungary, where they resided till 1848. During the Revolution they retired from Pesth in order to avoid the imputation of meddling in any way in politics.

During the whole of their residence in Hungary they never transgressed the laws of the country, and have conducted themselves with universally-admitted propriety; they enjoyed the protection of the late Palatine, and always gave the authorities every information as to their proceedings and objects.

During the period of their residence in Hungary, they scrupulously abstained from interference with the Roman Catholic persuasion.

After having passed ten years peaceably in the country, they were on the 15th January dismissed from Pesth, compelled within six days to dispose of their property, and with their wives and children to depart in the depth of winter from their home.

This sudden removal at an inclement season necessarily inflicted considerable loss of property on Messrs. Wingate and Smith (the forced sale of their furniture at a moment's notice amounting almost to confiscation of their effects), and their respective families being in a weak state of health, the hardship of their long journey was much increased.

Her Majesty's Government, while feeling that it is not for them to question the amount of religious toleration exercised in Austria, and consequently abstaining from making any formal application for redress for these unoffending persons, yet in bringing the above circumstances under the consideration of Prince Schwarzenberg, they leave it to the good feelings of the Austrian Government to decide whether they think fit to afford any compensation for the bodily sufferings of these persons and their families, and for the loss of property inflicted on them by the forced sale of their effects, which almost amounted to confiscation.

The estimate which has been made by Messrs. Smith and Wingate of the losses they have incurred, can be transmitted if the Austrian Government should require it.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received March 12.)

My Lord, Vienna, March 7, 1852.

I OBSERVE in the "Morning Post" of the 3rd instant, which arrived this day, a report of a meeting of the Protestant inhabitants of Edinburgh, at which Mr. Wingate, the missionary who resided at Pesth, complained of want of attention on my part on his application to me for protection. Mr. Wingate states that upon his receiving an order to quit the Austrian Dominions he made a representation in the first instance, through a third person, to this Mission; that his complaint was not received in the manner he should have anticipated; and that no attempt was made by me even to obtain delay for him. I think it due to myself, under these circumstances, to recall the statements made in my despatch to Earl Granville of the 3rd of February. I therein report that Messrs. Wingate and Smith had called upon Mr. Grey, from whom I learnt that although they complained of the harsh treatment they had met with by the peremptory order they had received, they had only requested the interference of this Mission to be allowed to quit the country without molestation from the police. Mr. Grey applied to the Minister of the Interior, M. Bach, for this permission; I seconded the application myself, personally; and the request was complied with. This is all I ever heard of the case, till it appeared in the English newspapers.

If any application was made by these gentlemen for interference on the part of the Mission to obtain a reversal of the order they had received, or delay in its execution, I can only say I never heard of it. Mr. Grey is now in England, and will be able to give any further information your Lordship may require as to their conversation with him. I need not assure your Lordship that if I had received any application for redress or compensation, I should have used my best endeavours to obtain for it the attention it deserved. I sincerely regret that the hardships Messrs. Wingate and Smith met with, and of which I was informed by Earl Granville's despatch of the 17th of February, were not stated to me on the passage of those gentlemen through Vienna, and so I expressed myself in my answer to that despatch. I should then, as I have now done, have immediately made the application to the Government here, which is detailed in my despatch to Earl Granville of the 28th of February, and which is in accordance with the instructions transmitted to me.

The same "Morning Post" also states that Mr. Edward has complained that he met with neither "sympathy nor assistance" from me. I must beg to refer your Lordship to my despatch of the 3rd of February to Earl Granville, in which I inclosed copies of the two memoranda which, immediately on the receipt of Mr. Edward's application, I placed in the hands of the Under-Secretary of State, and of the private letter I addressed to Mr. Edward. I had an interview with this gentleman when he came to Vienna, and I told him the steps I had taken in support of his application, and recommended him to wait at Vienna till the information with regard to the documents I had submitted to the Austrian Government could be received from Lemberg, whither they had been transmitted. I gave this gentleman the assurance that I would do everything in my power to obtain his objects.

A day or two afterwards I was informed by Mr. Grey that Mr. Edward wished to return to Lemberg, and that he intended to call upon General Prince Edmond Schwarzenberg (who had upon former occasions assisted him) to ask for permission to do so. With the desire of facilitating his object, I myself applied to Prince Edmond Schwarzenberg, and obtained from him the assurance that he would facilitate Mr. Edward's return to Lemberg. Having accomplished this, I conceived that I had done all that Mr. Edward required, or that could be done for him, until the Government should receive the information they had asked for from Lemberg; and having heard nothing more from this gentleman, I supposed him to be still residing in Lemberg, and it is only by the reports in the newspaper that I have this day learnt that he had left the Austrian Dominions.

I will not make any further comment upon the statements which have been made upon these two cases; I have only been desirous of stating distinctly to your Lordship the part which I have taken in them, and the regret I feel that, owing to the manner in which they were brought before me, I was unable to render greater assistance.

I have, &c.

Memorandum by the Hon. W. Grey.

102, Eaton Square, March 16, 1852.

THE application of Mr. Edward, the missionary at Lemberg, to be allowed to remain in the country, was received by Lord Westmorland on the 30th of December, 1851, the 31st being the day upon which Mr. Edward was to leave Lemberg. Lord Westmorland lost no time in representing his case to the Government both verbally and in a written memorandum. The answer returned to him verbally was unfavourable, and Lord Westmorland was given to understand that the Government did not wish the Jews to be interfered with.

A few days after this, about the 5th of January, Mr. Edward arrived at Vienna, and had an interview with Lord Westmorland, who told him what he had done, and promised to make further representations to the Government, which he did, but without effect, although he succeeded in obtaining permission for Mr. Edward to go back to Lemberg and settle his affairs. I do not believe Mr. Edward was made acquainted with this permission by the Mission, which he never came near after his second or third visit, and when we sent to inquire for him we were told that he was gone back to Lemberg, and the Minister of the Interior himself told me that he was gone there.

It was during the first week of the month of January, while the case of Mr. Edward was being represented to the Government, that we heard accidentally that there were two more missionaries at Pesth, who were also in trouble, and one morning about 9 o'clock I was told at my own house, that a Captain Masjon wished to speak to me. He came in and told me that he had been requested by Messrs. Wingate and Smith to make an application on their behalf at the British Mission, as they were ordered to leave the country. I told him that we had just got Mr. Edward's case before us; that we had applied to the Government, and that the answer given was as far as it went unfavourable, and that I thought we had a better chance of obtaining redress for one person than for three; nevertheless, if Messrs. Wingate and Smith would send in a written statement of their case from Pesth, they might be sure Lord Westmorland would do all he could to meet their wishes. No such application was made, and as far as I remember it was about ten days afterwards that Messrs. Wingate and Smith appeared in person at the Chancellerie, and asked to speak to me, stating that they did so because they knew I had been six or seven years in Vienna, and that I was therefore probably acquainted with them, at least by name. I had a good deal of conversation with them. I told them all that had passed with regard to Mr. Edward; that I thought there was little chance of his obtaining permission to remain, and that Lord Westmorland had been confidentially told by the Government, that they did not wish the Jews to be meddled with at present. Messrs. Wingate and Smith said that they had heard the same thing, and that the object of their present application was to obtain permission to travel by easy stages, and without molestation from the police, as Mr. Smith's only child, a daughter, was in a dangerous state. This I undertook to procure for them myself, and I accordingly went to Dr. Bach, the Minister of the Interior, whom I did not succeed in seeing till two days after upon the Sunday, Messrs. Wingate and Smith having told me they were to leave Vienna on the Monday. Dr. Bach immediately granted my request that these gentlemen might be allowed to travel as they pleased, and sent orders to the police to that effect in my presence. I wrote a note immediately to Mr. Smith, informing him of this, and advising him to send his passport to the police that it might be visé'd according to the instructions of the Minister of the Interior. This note was taken to Mr. Smith by my own servant, and given to Mr. Smith himself before 5 on Sunday afternoon. The answer was "It is all right;" and from that day nothing more was heard at the Mission, of Messrs. Wingate and Smith.

I have only to add that these two gentlemen never asked to see Lord Westmorland; that their application made to me was, that they might be allowed to travel at their ease, without molestation from the police, and nothing more. This application was successful.

The Lord Provost of Edinburgh to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received March 17.)

My Lord, City Chambers, Edinburgh, March 15, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to transmit a memorial from a public meeting of the inhabitants of this city, respecting the Protestant missionaries expelled from the Austrian Dominions, and to request that your Lordship will give it your early and serious consideration, with a view to obtaining redress for the past, and a guarantee against similar conduct in future.

Inclosure in No. 13.

Memorial to the Right Honourable Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, adopted at a Public Meeting of the Protestant inhabitants of Edinburgh and its vicinity, held in the Music Hall, Edinburgh, on Thursday, February 26, 1852, with reference to the expulsion of Protestant Missionaries from Austria.

AS set forth in a statement presented on the part of the Committee of the Free Church of Scotland for the conversion of the Jews, on the 6th of this month, to the Right Honourable Earl Granville, then Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the Rev. Messrs. Smith and Wingate, who had been resident in Pesth for ten years with the full knowledge of the Austrian Government, were, on the 15th of January last, summarily, and without cause assigned, dismissed from Pesth and the Austrian Dominions after six days' notice; and the Rev. Mr. Edward was in similar circumstances, after three years' residence, ordered to leave Lemberg and the Austrian Dominions on fifteen days' notice—this expulsion being attended with danger to the health of the missionaries and their families, and having subjected them to pecuniary loss.

That this meeting considers the expulsion of these missionaries to have been a harsh and unwarrantable procedure; and that their case, besides the injury to British subjects for which redress may justly be demanded, involves a general question as to the position of our countrymen in foreign parts, pursuing lawful callings and giving no offence, to which the attention of Her Majesty's Government cannot be too soon or too seriously directed.

That this meeting considers that the proceedings now complained of may be traced to the machinations of the Church of Rome; that they give evidence of the understanding which now subsists between that Church and the despotic Governments of the Continent; and that they must be regarded as forming part of an organised plan for driving out all British Protestants from Papal Europe.

That this meeting further considers that this policy of the Papacy and its abettors—while it should not lead to any abridgment of the liberty which Roman Catholics have among us, both to hold and to propagate their opinions on their own resources—is well fitted to open the eyes of men to the essential character of Popery, and in particular to that aggressive and intolerant spirit which, whenever it acquires an ascendancy, must endanger the peace as well as the liberty of the nations, and must therefore always demand the utmost vigilance on the part of this great and free Protestant country.

That the interposition of Her Majesty's Government is therefore craved, not only to procure redress for the missionaries who have been expelled, and to obtain a restoration of the liberty hitherto granted to them to labour at their stations, but also to adopt such measures as will effectually protect British Protestants engaged in lawful callings in Europe from similar treatment.

My Lord,

I HAVE the honour to transmit to your Lordship the accompanying memorials from the Commission of the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland in regard to,—

1. Expulsion of the Rev. Messrs. Wingate and Smith from Pesth, and the Rev. Mr. Edward from Lemberg, by the Austrian Government.

2. The liberty of British subjects abroad, and specially with reference to the case of Thomas Downie.

And I am requested to ask your Lordship's favourable consideration of the same.

Unto the Right Hon. the Earl of Malmesbury, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

The Memorial of the Commission of the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland

Humbly Showeth,

THAT your memorialists have had their attention directed to certain documents submitted to Her Majesty's Government by the Committee of the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland on the conversion of the Jews, viz.,

1. Statement presented on the part of the Committee of the Free Church of Scotland for the conversion of the Jews to the Right Honourable Earl Granville, Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, of date 6th February, 1852;

2. Supplementary Statement regarding the Rev. Daniel Edward's expulsion from Lemberg, transmitted to your Lordship as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, of date 25th February, 1852.

That the grievances complained of in these documents appear to your memorialists to deserve the serious consideration of Her Majesty's Government, affecting as they do not merely the missionary operations of this church, but the civil and religious rights and liberties of British subjects resident in foreign parts.

May it therefore please your Lordship to take such steps as may seem fit on the part of Her Majesty's Government to procure redress of the aforesaid grievances, as well as liberty to the missionaries to resume the labours which for many years they have been carrying on with the full knowledge and implied permission of the Austrian Government, in entire conformity with the laws of the country, and without any complaint having ever been preferred against them

Mr. Guthrie to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received March 19.)

Glasgow, 49, West George Street,
March 17, 1852.

My Lord,

I BEG leave to take the liberty of sending you a memorial unanimously adopted at a Public Meeting of the Protestant inhabitants of Glasgow, held in the City Hall on the evening of Tuesday, the 16th March instant, craving the interposition of Her Majesty's Government to procure redress for the recent expulsion of Protestant missionaries from Hungary by Austria, as well as to obtain the restoration of their liberty, and also to exert the influence of this country to protect British Protestants resident in Europe from similar treatment.

I may be allowed to add that the meeting was very large, and highly respectable, and composed of the leading clergymen and laymen of the various denominations of Protestants in the city, and that the memorial was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted.

I have, &c.

Inclosure in No. 15.

Memorial.

Unto the Right Honourable Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

The Memorial of the Protestant citizens of Glasgow, in Public Meeting assembled, in the City Hall, on the evening of Tuesday, March 16, 1852, at seven o'clock. Sir James Anderson in the chair,

Humbly showeth,

THAT while deprecating all interference with the internal affairs of other nations, your memorialists cannot look without anxiety and alarm at the present aspect of the States of Continental Europe, as almost everywhere menacing that religious liberty which is the only true foundation of civil liberty and of social happiness; and they feel called upon to urge on the British Government the duty of claiming and providing for their countrymen in these States, the ample toleration which Britain so readily accords to foreigners of all nations and of every creed.

That the recent expulsion by the Government of Austria, from Hungary, of Messrs. Edward, Smith, and Wingate, ministering in matters of religion to their own countrymen, and missionaries to the Jews in that country, without even the pretence of their having interfered with the political institutions of the country, affords painful evidence of a determination to crush religious liberty, and loudly calls for the aid and sympathy of British Christians of all denominations.

That these and the like proceedings arise from the union which has always subsisted between the Church of Rome and Despotism, the effect of which has ever been to enthral the conscience, darken the understanding, and destroy the hopes of man; and while your memorialists, confiding in the omnipotence of truth, would deprecate any abridgment of the liberty in this country long enjoyed though often abused by the Church of Rome, they would urge upon their own Government the necessity of requiring for our missionaries in Hungary redress for the injuries they have sustained, as a dishonour to the truth of God, an invasion of the rights of man, an insult to the British Nation, and, if passed over in silence, the probable precursor of persecution to Protestants throughout the despotic States of Europe.

The memorialists, therefore, specially request the Right Honourable Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to take this memorial into consideration, and to interpose the influence of Her Majesty's Government to procure redress for the grievance complained of, as well as to obtain a restoration of the liberty hitherto granted to the missionaries expelled, and also to exert the influence of this country to protect British Protestants resident in Europe from similar treatment.

And your memorialists shall ever pray.

Signed in name and by appointment of the above Meeting,

My Lord, Foreign Office, March 19, 1852.

I AM directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant, inclosing a memorial from a public meeting held at Edinburgh on the subject of the expulsion from the Austrian Dominions of certain Protestant missionaries to the Jews.

In reply I am directed to inform you that it appears from a preliminary conversation on this matter between Her Majesty's Minister at Vienna and the Austrian authorities, that the measure in question was adopted in pursuance of the determination of the Austrian Government no longer to tolerate any interference on the part of foreign missionaries with the religious belief of Austrian Jews. I am further to point out to you that it is not for Her Majesty's Government to dictate to the Austrian Government what amount of religious toleration should be exercised in Austria, and that consequently Her Majesty's Government have abstained from making a formal demand for redress; but I have to inform you that Her Majesty's Minister at Vienna has been instructed in bringing this matter under the notice of the Austrian Government, to leave it to the good feelings of that Government to decide whether they think fit to afford any compensation to the missionaries in question for the bodily sufferings entailed on themselves and families, and for the loss of property inflicted on them by the forced sale of their effects. To this demand no reply has yet been returned by the Austrian Government, but the Prime Minister promised to give the subject his immediate attention.

The Earl of Malmesbury to the Earl of Westmorland.

My Lord, Foreign Office, March 23, 1852.

HER Majesty's Government entirely approve the course you took in applying to Prince Schwarzenberg for a compensation for Messrs. Wingate and Smith, who were expelled by the Austrian Government from Pesth.

Her Majesty's Government are anxious that you should explain to the Austrian Government that they in no wise dispute the right of Austria to extend or restrict religious toleration as it deems expedient over its own territories; but that you should further press upon the Austrian Government the peculiar circumstances under which these missionaries have suffered.

These gentlemen entered upon this arduous undertaking without any apprehension that their scheme and occupation were displeasing to the Austrian Government, which for a long time permitted them quietly to continue their labours.

Under this impression, and confining themselves as they declare entirely to their system of religious instruction, they were suddenly exiled from Pesth, at a great sacrifice of personal comfort and of property.

Her Majesty's Government cannot but believe that if the Austrian Government considers the expulsion of these missionaries as really important to its general system of policy, it will also confess that justice and equity require a pecuniary compensation for their losses.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received March 29.)

AS I had received no reply to the application I had made to this Government on the case of the Rev. Mr. Edward, the English clergyman residing in Lemberg, I addressed a note on the 10th instant to Prince Schwarzenberg, a copy of which I have the honour of forwarding, in which I requested that an early answer might be transmitted to me; and I have the honour of inclosing a translation of the reply I have received from Prince Schwarzenberg, stating that not having yet received the required answer from the authorities to whom these cases had been referred, he has taken steps to instruct the said authorities to lose no time in bringing the necessary transactions to a speedy termination, in order that he may soon be enabled to transmit to me a satisfactory answer.

The Earl of Westmorland to Prince Schwarzenberg.

THE Undersigned takes this opportunity of reminding his Highness Prince Schwarzenberg, that he has not yet received any answer to the memorandum which he had the honour to submit to his Highness on the 31st December, respecting the case of Mr. Edward, an English clergyman, residing in Lemberg, who received an order to quit the Austrian Dominions within the space of thirteen days, and setting forth Mr. Edward's request that His Imperial Majesty would grant him leave to continue to discharge the Christian duties in Lemberg which he had hitherto had permission to exercise.

The Undersigned is extremely anxious to receive an answer to this memorandum, and begs to recommend it to Prince Schwarzenberg's kind and speedy attention.

HER Britannic Majesty's Minister the Earl of Westmorland requested the Imperial Ministry for Foreign Affairs, by a note dated 10th March, 1852, to hasten the answer of a note which his Lordship had addressed to that office on the 31st of December, relative to the missionary, Mr. Edward, who had been ordered to leave the town of Lemberg.

The Imperial Ministry not having yet received the required answer from the authorities to whom the above-mentioned case had been referred, have immediately taken steps to instruct the said authorities to lose no time in bringing the necessary transactions to a speedy termination, and the Imperial Ministry hope to be soon enabled to transmit a satisfactory answer to the note to the Earl of Westmorland.

My Lord, Vienna, March 30, 1852.

I HAVE the honour of acknowledging the receipt of your Lordship's despatch of the 23rd instant, inclosing a statement by Mr. Moody Stuart, of the case of Mr. Daniel Edward.

Your Lordship is already in possession of the various steps I have taken with regard to the measures pursued by the Austrian Government, and I have reasons, in consequence of the applications I have made to the Minister of the Interior, M. de Bach, to expect an early reply.

Mr. Edward asserts in his report of his case, that "from the British Embassy he received neither assistance nor sympathy." As your Lordship is aware from my despatches upon this subject of the 3rd February to Earl Granville, and of March 7, to your Lordship, how entirely this statement is unfounded, I hope you will not allow it to pass without a suitable observation.

Prince Schwarzenberg replied that he had immediately upon the receipt of my application transmitted it to the Minister of the Interior, recommending it to his favourable consideration, and that he was in daily expectation of receiving his answer which he would not fail to transmit to me as soon as he was in possession of it.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received April 26.)

I ATTENDED on the 14th instant the first public reception given by Count Buol to the Corps Diplomatique, on his appointment as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

His Excellency received me with the greatest cordiality, and repeated the expressions which in a former despatch I have already reported to your Lordship of his anxious desire to maintain the most friendly relations with England.

He stated that there were at present but two subjects which called for arrangement between the two Governments,—that of the missionaries who had been removed from Pesth and Lemberg, and the difficulties which had arisen with the Tuscan Government with regard to the treatment of Mr. Mather by an Austrian officer.

With respect to the first, he was as yet but very imperfectly informed; he had heard, however, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith had acted in contravention of the laws of the Empire, by the establishment of a religious service, not in English, for which they had been tolerated, but in German, and that they had an extensive system for the propagation of their doctrines, which was not confined to their countrymen,—they had therefore been removed; but that no impediments had been offered to the disposal of their property, or to their placing it in the custody of their friends, to whom it was understood they had entrusted it.

I replied to Count Buol by the expression of my most anxious hopes that he would endeavour to arrive at such an arrangement as might be satisfactory to your Lordship; and with respect to the missionaries, Messrs. Wingate and Smith, I could not but recall to his recollection that the short period allowed those gentlemen for their departure from the country, must necessarily have entailed upon them a very considerable loss of property.

Count Buol said that he certainly would do what he was able towards a satisfactory settlement of these questions; but the case of the missionaries was to be decided upon by the Department of the Interior, more particularly as those gentlemen had acted in contravention to the laws of the Empire; and with regard to the loss of property, if he was rightly informed, that property had not been interfered with.

I HAVE the honour of inclosing the memorandum which I have received from Count Buol, inclosing the report addressed to him by the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, upon the application which I had made for compensation to Messrs. Wingate and Smith, who, in the month of January last, were ordered to remove from Pesth at only six days' notice, and to leave the Austrian Dominions. I have had frequent communications with the late Prince Schwarzenberg and Baron Bach upon the subject of this application, and lately, since his arrival in this country with Count Buol; and I have with the utmost zeal endeavoured to impress upon those Ministers the justice of the claim for compensation which had been put forward by Lord Granville, and recently by your Lordship, in favour of those gentlemen.

I have always received the assurances that if in the judgment of the authorities to whom this application must necessarily be submitted, any ground for compensation was admitted, it would most readily be granted; but that with those authorities alone that decision must rest. These authorities having now given their decided opinion against the case of these gentlemen, Count Buol states his inability to differ from them, or to recommend a payment to persons whom they state to have transgressed the laws of the Empire, and by their correspondence abroad evidently to have proved they were aware they were doing so. I again repeated in reply the arguments which I have so often urged in favour of the claims of those gentlemen, and more particularly those which I reported to your Lordship in my despatch of the 19th instant; but I am sorry to say without any greater success; and I do not see a possibility of pressing the matter further than I have done in every way. I therefore now submit these documents for your Lordship's appreciation.

I have, &c.

Promemoria from Count Buol.

IMMEDIATELY on receiving the memorandum which the English Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary, the Earl of Westmorland, addressed on the 27th of February to the Imperial Ministry for Foreign Affairs, and in which his Excellency applied to the Imperial Government to grant a compensation to the Scotch missionaries, Messrs. Wingate and Smith, expelled from Pesth in the month of January last, this Ministry made it its duty to inquire from the competent Imperial authorities, the grounds of this measure, and to recommend the application for compensation to their consideration, according to the circumstances of the case.

From the reply of the Ministry of the Interior of the 17th of this month (a copy of which, together with two inclosures is annexed), the British Minister is informed, first, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith were from the first only tolerated in the exercise of their calling, and that therefore the withdrawal of this tacit toleration was always in the power of the Government; further, that their removal only took place in consequence of clear evidence of their having repeatedly overstepped and transgressed the existing laws and regulations; and that the Imperial authorities only adopted this measure to avoid the necessity of adopting more stringent measures against them, namely, prosecuting them according to law.

Under these circumstances, the competent Imperial authorities find it impossible to admit Messrs. Wingate and Smith's claims for compensation, and the Ministry for Foreign Affairs can therefore only express its regret to his Excellency the Earl of Westmorland at being unable to return any more favourable reply to his application.

Inclosure 2 in No. 27.

The Minister of the Interior to Count Buol-Schauenstein.

(Translation.) April 16, 1852.

IN conformity with the wish expressed in a note of the 10th ultimo, I took all the necessary steps to ascertain the reasons which caused the missionaries Wingate and Smith to be removed from Pesth and the Austrian States, so as to be better enabled to judge of their claims for indemnification for the supposed losses sustained by them at their sudden and forcible departure from Pesth.

I extract the following account from the official documents relating to this affair.

Wingate and Smith, who arrived at Pesth in 1841, were originally destined to read Divine Service to the English families employed in the construction of the great suspension bridge.

The Municipal Government never gave them a formal permission to do so, and they never even applied for it; but no difficulty was ever made, no obstacle ever presented to the execution of their mission; and this connivance or toleration on the part of the Government may have been looked upon as a sort of approbation of their proceedings.

Harmless and restricted as their actions were at first, it soon became evident that the missionaries were seeking to extend their sphere of activity, and were following a course which little corresponded to their original destination.

Even before the Revolution it became clearly evident how little their tendencies harmonized with the established laws of the country.

Under pretence of converting the Jews to Christianity, they built a school, which soon was richly endowed; and they appointed two masters (teachers), Bijaki and Schlecht, who had both passed over from the Catholic to the Protestant Church.

Children of Catholic parents were taken into this school, and the said missionaries at last went so far that in their chapel, the original destination of which, by the toleration granted them by Government, was to offer a holy meeting place to the members of the Established Church of England, they actually performed their divine service in the German language.

This circumstance alone proves clearly that reading Divine Service for the English families employed in the construction of the great suspension bridge was merely a pretext, and that their real object was evidently proselytism.

The serious political agitation which then prevailed in the country is the only reason which prevented the Government from meeting these unlawful proceedings with merited severity.

It is true that Wingate and Smith retired from the scene of action at the outbreak of the revolution, but it is also evident they did so from a knowledge that at similar stormy periods there was little to be done and gained for their interests. No sooner, however, had the rebellion been suppressed, than the two missionaries appeared again, and recommenced their propagandist activity.

The Government then turned its attention more particularly to the doings of these men, and it was soon discovered and proved that Wingate and Smith were having large numbers of Bibles in every language of the Empire, and little by little also religious tracts tending to the conversion to Protestantism, carried and sold all over the country by paid hawkers, who were even instructed in many cases to distribute them gratis.

If any doubt had still been entertained as to the dangerous activity and the anti-governmental dispositions of the missionaries Wingate and Smith, it was soon destroyed by the various reports which appeared in the English newspapers, and of which I inclose two in German translation.

The mildest course that could be pursued to put an end to the proceedings of the missionaries Wingate and Smith, who had acted directly against the laws of the country in more than one case, was most certainly to remove them from the Empire, as their many and various actions against our laws had most undoubtedly deserved severer measures.

Under these circumstances every right to a claim for indemnification of the supposed losses sustained by their banishment must naturally cease.

It is further proved that Wingate and Smith, on leaving Pesth, placed and secured all that part of their property they could not take with them, and their library, in the hands of the preacher Banhofer, and their hawker, Lederer, to be kept for them; and the assertion, therefore, that much of their property had been lost by their sudden departure is untrue, or at least exaggerated, as it only depended on them to place whatever they could not sell with advantage under the care of the above-mentioned persons of confidence.

Every claim to an indemnification must therefore cease; and in returning Her Britannic Majesty's Minister's memorandum dated 27th February of the current year, I beg that your Excellency will be pleased to answer the said memorandum by stating that the Imperial Government consider the claim for indemnification for supposed losses sustained by a deserved and lawful removal out of the Imperial States, made by the missionaries Wingate and Smith, to be unfounded and inadmissible.

Extract from the "Home and Foreign Record."

(Translation.)

THE English newspaper entitled "The Home and Foreign Record of the Free Church of Scotland," December 18, 1851, page 162, "Jewish Mission," contains the following letter from Pesth, from the English clergyman named Smith, dated March 5th:

"The confidence of the Jews in the labours of the Missionary School is now so great that these labours may now be carried to any length. The Missionary School enjoys so great a reputation, even amongst the Protestants, that one of the most influential amongst them sent a short time ago to know if his child would be admitted. The people are thirsting after the word of God. The distributors might circulate it throughout Hungary. This free entry and access is connected with the unhappy failure of the earthly hopes of the people. Still Hungary is a Roman Catholic country in which the distribution of Bibles is often subject to the suspicion of political agitation, a suspicion which may be easily suppressed, but this circulation is also subject to the hatred of the clergy, which cannot be avoided. Three months ago the depôt of the Bible Society was closed, and the agent forced to appear before the police and military tribunal. All efforts to reopen the magazine have hitherto been fruitless. One of our distributors was some time ago impeded in his occupation by the Bibles having been taken away from him; and after he had been examined his case was referred to Pesth, where he is now under examination. Another was prevented obeying the summons of the tribunal owing to his absence from the country. The clergy are probably the promoters of these proceedings against us: the Romish spirit, which now preponderates, influences the Government in all its different branches; and many officials yield, perhaps unconsciously, to its power, who, if left to themselves or placed under more favourable circumstances, would rather work for the distribution of the word of God."

Extract from "The Independant." New York, October 23, 1851.

Hungary, May 1851. (End of the Article.) The mission has here found a favourable soil. The missionaries have here converted 300 Jews and distributors, who now circulate Bibles throughout the country. They have opened in the neighbourhood of the Chain Bridge an English service, and later by imperceptible degrees, a German one; so that, step by step, working with the greatest precaution, they have gained a considerable influence in Hungary.

The greatest marvel is, that they should have been permitted in the heart of the Austrian Monarchy to work. I am expecting, however, the removal of the mission by the Austrian Government.

The Rev. A. Moody Stuart to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received April 27.)

Free Church of Scotland Committee for promoting Christianity among the Jews, Edinburgh, April 23, 1852.

My Lord,

ON the 6th of February last I had the honour to lay before Earl Granville, then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a statement on behalf of the above Committee, relative to the expulsion of three of their missionaries from the Austrian Dominions; and his Lordship was then respectfully requested to take such steps on the part of Her Majesty's Government as might seem fitting, to procure redress for the loss and injury which these missionaries had sustained, and their restoration to the sphere of their labours. And there was subsequently, at his Lordship's request, handed to his Lordship a particular statement of the loss which Messrs. Wingate and Smith, two of these missionaries, had sustained through their summary expulsion from Pesth.

I have observed from the discussions in Parliament, that Her Majesty's Government have been in communication with the Austrian Government, relative to this matter, and I will be much obliged to your Lordship if you can communicate the result thereof for the information of the Committee, that they may report the same to the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland, which meets at an early day.

No. 29.

Mr. Addington to the Rev. A. Moody Stuart.

Sir,

Foreign Office, April 28, 1852.

I AM directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to inform you that after several urgent appeals made by him through the Earl of Westmorland, Her Majesty's Minister at Vienna, a reply has been received from the Austrian Government to the representations which, in compliance with the request of the deputation which was received by Earl Granville on the 6th of February last, Her Majesty's Minister at the Court of Vienna was instructed to make, with respect to the expulsion of Messrs. Wingate, Smith, and Edward, from the Austrian Dominions.

The reason assigned by the Austrian Government for the delay which has occurred in giving this reply, is the necessity of awaiting the detailed report of the local authorities on the matter. It has now been received, and Lord Malmesbury regrets to say that the reply is completely unfavourable. The account given of the matter by the Austrian authorities is as follows:—

Messrs. Wingate and Smith arrived at Pesth in 1841, and originally confined themselves to reading Divine Service to the English Protestant labourers employed in the construction of the suspension bridge. The Imperial Government never gave them formal permission to do so, nor indeed did they apply for it; but no impediment was offered to the execution of their functions. It soon, however, became apparent that these gentlemen were desirous to extend their sphere of activity, in a manner not in conformity with the laws of the country. With the alleged object of converting the Jews to Christianity, they built a school, and appointed two teachers, Bijaki and Schlecht, who had both been converted from the Catholic to the Protestant Church. Children of Catholic parents were received into their school, and Messrs. Wingate and Smith were at last so far departed from the original destination to which they had applied their chapel, namely, to afford a place of worship to members of the Church of England, that they performed Divine Service in the German language. The political disturbances which prevailed in the country at the commencement of these proceedings are assigned by the Austrian Government as the only reason for not repressing them immediately with all the rigour of the law.

On the outbreak of the Revolution, Messrs. Smith and Wingate left the country, but on their return it was discovered that they were distributing Bibles in every language of the Empire, and religious tracts tending to the conversion to Protestantism throughout the country. In proof of the real object of Messrs. Wingate and Smith, the Austrian Minister refers to a letter from Mr. Smith published in "The Home and Foreign Record of the Free Church of Scotland," of December 18, 1851, and to another letter published in the "Independant" of New York, of the 23rd of October, 1851, dated May of the same year, in which it is stated that "the mission had opened in the neighbourhood of the chain bridge an English service, and later, by imperceptible degrees, a German one; so that, step by step, working with the greatest precaution, they had gained a considerable influence in Hungary."

In the same letter the greatest surprise is expressed by the writer, that the mission should have been permitted to work; but the writer (in May 1851) at the same time expresses his expectation that the mission would be removed by the Austrian Government.

If these statements are correct, it would therefore appear that Messrs. Wingate and Smith did not confine themselves to the conversion of the Jews, or to the task of preaching to their own countrymen; that, on the contrary, they endeavoured to make proselytes among the native Roman Catholic population; and that, contrary to the Austrian laws, they caused Bibles and tracts to be distributed in the country; and that they were fully aware as early as May 1851, that the course they were pursuing exposed them to expulsion from the Austrian Dominions. The Earl of Malmesbury has moreover been informed by the Austrian Minister of the Interior, that their property has been uninjured, and now remains in the custody of their personal friends. On these grounds the Austrian Government declines to entertain the claim for compensation advanced by the gentlemen in question.

However much Her Majesty's Government may regret the personal inconvenience to which Messrs. Smith, Wingate, and Edward, may have been put, and the sudden harshness with which the Austrian laws were enforced, Her Majesty's Government cannot with propriety any longer interfere to procure compensation for that inconvenience, caused as it has been by those gentlemen not confining themselves to the objects with which they visited Hungary in the first instance, and the pursuit of which was tolerated by the Austrian Government.

The Earl of Westmorland has been indefatigable in representing, both to the late Prince Schwarzenberg and the present Government at Vienna, the claims of Messrs. Wingate and Smith, but he has been met by the above statement, as showing that those gentlemen had violated the laws of the Empire with their own previous knowledge.

It has been with great regret that the Earl of Malmesbury has seen in the newspapers speeches made at public meetings, which openly accused Lord Westmorland of not exerting his influence on behalf of these missionaries. The official correspondence in this Office affords the most unquestionable proof that that Minister neglected no effort which he could properly employ to obtain for them the redress and compensation to which Her Majesty's Government believed them to be equitably entitled.

I am, &c.

No. 30.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received May 1.)

My Lord, Vienna, April 26, 1852.

I HAVE made frequent applications to this Government for a reply to the memorandum I presented on the 31st of December of last year, on the complaint of the Rev. Mr. Edward, and which is inclosed in my despatch addressed to Earl Granville of the 3rd February; and on the 10th of March I recalled the attention of Prince Schwarzenberg to the subject, by a note addressed to his Highness, a copy of which was inclosed in my despatch to your Lordship of the 22nd March; and upon the receipt of your Lordship's despatch of the 23rd of March, I again brought the complaint of Mr. Edward under the consideration of Prince Schwarzenberg, and received from him the assurance that he would renew his application to the Minister of the Interior for the information he had asked for upon this subject.

I have now the honour of transmitting to your Lordship the preliminary reply which I have this day received from Count Buol, and which still refers to further information, which he will forward as soon as he receives it from the authorities to whom the complaint of Mr. Edward has been referred.

I very much regret the great delay which has taken place in obtaining the information which I now submit to your Lordship's consideration, as to the grounds of Mr. Edward's removal; and I will not fail to transmit the further information which Count Buol has announced his intention of forwarding to me, together with the decision which may accompany it.

I have, &c.

Inclosure in No. 30.

Count Buol to the Earl of Westmorland.

WITH reference to a memorandum from the Earl of Westmorland, dated 31st of December, 1851, respecting the Presbyterian clergyman, Mr. Daniel Edward, who had been desired by the authorities of Lemberg to leave that town, the Imperial Ministry for Foreign Affairs did not fail to refer to the proper authorities, and even renewed its inquiries a few days ago, to obtain the information required as to the reasons which had necessitated the adoption of that measure.

It appears, as far as can at present be ascertained, that the order dated 10th December, 1851, by which Mr. Daniel Edward was desired to leave Gallicia, was rendered necessary, partly by the forbidden sale of books of devotion, partly by his repeated transgression of the permission he had obtained on the 18th of May, 1851, to hold religious lectures solely and exclusively for the conversion of the Jews to Christianity, and only in his own house; so that Mr. Edward must attribute the order issued under the state of siege existing in Gallicia, by the central authorities, and by which he is now a sufferer, entirely to his own conduct.

The Imperial Ministry for Foreign Affairs, in bringing the above to the knowledge of the Earl of Westmorland, begs to inform his Lordship that it will forward to him all the documents relating to this affair, as soon as it shall have received them from the proper authorities.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received May 10.)

My Lord, Vienna, May 3, 1852.

IN compliance with your Lordship's desire,* I have transmitted to Count Buol, in an unofficial form, a memorandum requesting that further investigations should take place with respect to the property of Messrs. Wingate and Smith, than those which are reported in the Promemoria and its inclosures, dated the 19th of April, 1852, which had been transmitted to me by that Minister, and which were forwarded to your Lordship in my despatch of the 20th April.

I have the honour of forwarding herewith a copy of that memorandum, together with a copy of the note to Count Buol in which it was inclosed.

The Earl of Westmorland to Count Buol.

Vienna, May 3, 1852.

LORD WESTMORLAND, in presenting to his Excellency Count Buol his best compliments, has the honour of transmitting to him the inclosed memorandum upon the application made in favour of Messrs. Wingate and Smith, and upon which Her Majesty's Government would desire some more detailed information and answer than was contained in the documents transmitted in the Promemoria on this subject, dated the 19th April, 1852.

Memorandum.

Vienna, May 3, 1852.

IN the statement with regard to the circumstances attending the removal of Messrs. Wingate and Smith from the Austrian Dominions, which was placed before Prince Schwarzenberg in a memorandum dated the 28th of February last, it was stated that a loss had been inflicted upon these gentlemen by the forced sale of their furniture, &c., which amounted almost to confiscation, and therefore it was left to the good feelings of the Austrian Government to decide whether they thought fit to afford any compensation for the loss of property which, by the estimate that accompanied the statement of Messrs. Wingate and Smith, amounted for the loss upon the sale of Mr. Wingate's furniture, to 100*l.*, and on that of Mr. Smith to 78*l.* In addition to this loss, these gentlemen also considered themselves entitled to their travelling expenses for themselves and their effects, and the rent of their chapels, which had been paid in advance, and which amounted for Mr. Wingate to 147*l.*, and for Mr. Smith to 144*l.* In the reply of the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, to whom the above statement of the losses of Messrs. Wingate and Smith had been referred, it is stated that these gentlemen, on leaving Pesth, had placed and secured all that part of their property which they could not take with them, as well as their library, in the hands of the preacher Banhofer and of their agent Lederer, that it might be kept for them, and therefore that the assertion that much of the property of these gentlemen had been lost by their sudden departure was at least exaggerated, as it only depended upon them to place whatever they could not sell with advantage under the custody of the above-named persons of their confidence.

It is very much wished by Her Majesty's Government that the precise facts upon these different statements should be correctly ascertained, in order that if from any circumstances Messrs. Wingate and Smith were obliged to dispose of their property at the loss stated by them, the consideration of the Austrian Government may still be extended towards them, and if that should not have been the case, that sufficient evidence of the contrary should be established.

* Communicated in a private letter from the Earl of Malmesbury.

No. 32.

The Rev. A. Moody Stuart to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received May 11.)

Free Church of Scotland Committee for promoting Christianity among the Jews, Edinburgh, May 10, 1852.

My Lord,

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge receipt of your Lordship's communication of the 28th ultimo, and have to thank your Lordship for your attention to my last letter.

I observe with regret both the nature of the answer returned by the Austrian Government to your representations, and your Lordship's conclusion that Her Majesty's Government cannot any longer interfere to procure redress for Messrs. Wingate, Smith, and Edward, on the ground that "the inconvenience suffered by them has been caused by these gentlemen not confining themselves to the objects for which they visited Hungary in the first instance, and the pursuit of which was tolerated by the Austrian Government."

I had hoped that before coming to such a decision, your Lordship would have informed me of the allegations made by the Austrian Government, and have given me an opportunity of refuting them if incorrect, which I must still do in justice to the missionaries and in vindication of the statement presented by me in the name of the Committee for the Conversion of the Jews. Of the perfect accuracy of that statement in every particular, and of the injustice of the representations made by the Austrian Government, I trust to convince your Lordship by a brief but definite reply to every charge that has been preferred by them against the mission.

First of all, it is stated by the Austrian Government, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith on their arrival at Pesth in 1841, confined themselves originally to reading Divine Service to the English Protestant labourers; that the Imperial Government never gave them a formal commission to do so, but that no impediment was offered. In reply to this I have to repeat the statement that the mission from the first, both as designed by the Church of Scotland and as carried out by the missionaries in Pesth, embraced and was directed to the conversion of the Jews as well as to supplying Divine Service to the British residents; and that the conversion of the Jews to the Christian Protestant faith, was not illegal by the laws of Hungary; and I have to request your Lordship's attention to the fact that the answer of the Austrian Government, as communicated by you, while it seems to imply, does not venture to assert, that such conversion was contrary to law.

The Austrian Government further speaks of the preaching in German as having been introduced at a very recent period in the history of the mission, whereas an object in converting the Jews required German preaching as soon as our missionaries had mastered the language; and the fact is, that Mr. Smith preached in German ten years ago, in the year 1842. This German preaching is distinctly narrated by us in our statement to Lord Granville as part of our missionaries' work, when we had no expectation of its being charged against them as illegal; and that their whole operations in this and in all respects were both in conformity with law, and conducted under the eye and with the implied sanction of the Supreme Government of Hungary, your Lordship will find confirmed by the following extract from the "Lands of the Bible," published in 1847 by Dr. Wilson, who visited Pesth en route from India in 1843, after German had been preached in the mission, and many Jews had been converted and publicly baptized in the Hungarian churches:

"We bade adieu to Pesth on the 31st of August (1843), entering again a Danube steamer. Next morning at half-past 10 o'clock we arrived at Presburg, where the Diet of Hungary was holding its sessions. We were accompanied thither by Mr. Smith. In the evening we were presented to His Imperial Highness the Archduke Joseph, the Prince Palatine of Hungary. . . . . He expressed the warm interest which he felt in the progress which Christianity is making in different regions of the earth. . . . . He also spoke in high terms of our friends at Pesth, and of what he had heard of their prudent procedure. He entrusted me with a message to their constituents in Scotland."—(Vol. ii. p. 442.)

The representations I have already noticed are made for the purpose of bringing out the conclusion which your Lordship thus expresses, "that Messrs. Wingate and Smith endeavoured to make proselytes among the native Roman Catholic population." In answer to this charge, I have on their part most explicitly to assert that they never sought out Roman Catholics, nor used endeavours to convert them to Protestantism, and that when applied to for instruction by such persons, they invariably referred them to the Protestant ministers of the country. There may no doubt have been, and there were, individual Roman Catholics favourably impressed towards Protestantism, indirectly through the influence of their labours and Christian example; but there is no law of God, and there can be no righteous laws of man against an example of Christian holiness and love, or against its effects on the minds of others, and there was no law in Hungary against Roman Catholics becoming Protestants.

In reply to the averment "that the children of Catholic parents were received into the school," I have to state that it was a rule laid down by the missionaries, that no Catholic children should be admitted; that some such children who had on the urgent representation of their parents, been received by the teachers without their knowledge were afterwards removed by the missionaries; and that at the time of their expulsion from Pesth, there was not a single Roman Catholic child in the school. The circumstance of two of the teachers being converted Roman Catholics proves nothing more than what must ever be occurring in all countries where different creeds are tolerated; and the fact is, that one of those teachers being then a Roman Catholic, was at first engaged for the purely secular purpose of teaching the Hungarian language in the school, which cannot certainly be imputed to the missionaries as an offence, nor can they be held responsible for his act when he afterwards chose to become a Protestant.

The only other important charge is expressed by your Lordship in these terms: "that, contrary to the Austrian laws, they caused Bibles and tracts to be distributed in the country." I beg most respectfully to ask your Lordship on what evidence you have arrived at this conclusion; for in so far as you have quoted the Austrian despatches, I do not find in them any definite assertion to this effect. In our memorial to Lord Granville we state that "they distributed Bibles and other books in Hebrew and other languages," but, we add that "in so doing they adapted their proceedings to all existing laws;" and nothing has yet transpired to impugn the strict and minute accuracy of that memorial, in this or in any other particular. Controversial tracts were not circulated by the missionaries, but from the commencement of the mission, Bibles and other religious books were distributed in various languages, chiefly among the Jews. The late Palatine was fully aware of the efforts of the missionaries in this direction, and gave them his sanction. I am informed that since their expulsion Bible circulation has been suppressed in Hungary. But I have to remind your Lordship that Austria is not a purely Roman Catholic country, that Hungary alone contains 3,000,000 of Protestants, and that till recently there was no law prohibiting Bible circulation there; and I trust your Lordship will pardon me in some expression of indignation, if these gentlemen have been charged by the Austrian Government with the breach of a law that was made after their expulsion.

The Austrian Government further adduces "the political disturbances which prevailed at the commencement of these proceedings, as the only reason for its not suppressing them immediately with all the rigour of the law;" but these disturbances occurred in 1848, whereas the mission was commenced in 1841, and fifteen Jews at the least, some of them well-known and much respected in the city, were publicly baptized in 1843, being five years before the commencement of the disturbances.

Before leaving the only important charges that have been made by the Austrian Government, I beg to call your Lordship's attention to your more general answer of 20th March to the memorial from the Commission of the Assembly of the Free Church, which contains the significant statement, that "the measure in question was adopted in pursuance of the determination of the Austrian Government no longer to tolerate any interference on the part of foreign missionaries with the religious belief of Austrian Jews." The whole case is contained in these few words; the whole tangible offence of these missionaries, as here set forth, consisted in their being Britons and not Hungarians, and from the commencement to the close of their labours they did nothing which Hungarians were not entitled to do. Greater liberty than was granted to Austrian subjects they did not ask nor exercise, but in having used similar liberty they cannot be convicted of offence. Except their own persons and families, they introduced no new element into the country; they found in the Hungarian Protestant Church a creed which they could subscribe, and a worship like their own in which they could cheerfully join, they therefore placed themselves under the wing of recognized church authority, introduced no innovation whatever, but acted as furthering existing institutions; and even in baptizing British children they did so as deputed by the Hungarian Ministers. Their sole palpable offence, the only assignable, and in your Lordship's first letter the only assigned ground of their expulsion is not in any transgression of law, but in the simple fact that they were "foreigners." Their proceedings were open; their place of worship was immediately under and in the same building with the offices of the military police; there, and at other public offices, they had on several occasions appeared and explained their whole proceedings without the slightest reserve, and then, and not now, if all or any of their acts were illegal, they ought to have been informed of their illegality. But without the slightest intimation, during ten years' quiet residence, that they were breaking any law, they are first summarily, and without cause assigned, expelled from the country, and then charged with having acted contrary to its laws.

With the remaining allegation, which your Lordship expresses thus, "that the missionaries were fully aware so early as May 1851, that the course they were pursuing exposed them to expulsion from the Austrian Dominions," I have more difficulty in dealing, because the references in the way of proof are partly incorrect and partly irrelevant; but I have no difficulty in asserting that if any expressions to that effect exist in any letter of the missionaries, their fears did not arise in the least from what the Austrian Government terms "the rigour of the law," but solely from the caprice of arbitrary power, setting aside all that has been recognized as law. In proof of what the Austrian Government calls "their real object," reference is made to a letter of Mr. Smith's, dated 18th December, 1851, in the "Free Church Missionary Record," and to another letter in a New York paper. The real object of the missionaries, as known to us, was the conversion of the Jews, but what is insinuated by the Austrian Government as the "real object" is not expressly stated, and cannot by us be precisely ascertained, because there is no such letter in the "Missionary Record." The Austrian Government must indeed be at a loss for evidence of its allegations when it is driven to seek it in an American paper with which nobody connected with the mission has anything to do, or has ever seen, but even there the writer is said to have expressed his expectation of the mission being soon suppressed, not by Austrian law, but by the "Austrian Government," which can at present by no means be identified.

With regard to the information from the Austrian Minister of the Interior, that the property of the missionaries is uninjured, and remains in the custody of their personal friends, I have on their authority to state that this is so incorrect, that there is only one article of furniture belonging to either of them in Pesth in the custody of a friend; that with the exception of books, all the rest were either given away in the hurried removal, or sold then or since at great loss, and that in point of fact the losses much exceed the sum at which they were stated.

In reference to their statement that the Earl of Westmorland had not used his influence on their behalf, I have their authority to reply that they adhere to that statement, but that in the meantime they think it unnecessary to say anything further until the correspondence which is to be laid before Parliament shall have been printed.

On review of what I have written I find I have omitted an important fact both bearing on the general standing of the mission immediately before its suppression, and more especially sanctioning its German preaching, viz., that only a few months before the expulsion of the missionaries in January 1852, certain German speaking Christians, usually called Hamburghers, were found by the police engaged in religious exercises, were summoned before the authorities, prohibited from holding any religious meetings of their own, and ordered to join themselves to the English church, where they accordingly attended regularly every Sabbath at the German service till the expulsion of the missionaries. After such recognition of their standing in the city, Messrs. Wingate and Smith had surely good reason to complain that their expulsion was sudden and arbitrary.

I need scarcely add on the part of our committee that we still adhere to every part of our statement laid before Lord Granville. I think your Lordship will acknowledge that our present answer to the representations of the Austrian Government is at least definite and precise, and I have no doubt that on examination you will find it consistent with the facts of the case; I trust therefore that your Lordship will reconsider and alter your resolution "no longer to interfere to procure compensation" to the missionaries, and that Her Majesty's Government will exert itself to protect the property and persons of British subjects, whose whole procedure has been of the most inoffensive character, and whose sole employment and aim were the propagation of the Christian faith and the promotion of righteousness and peace on the earth.

Mr. Addington to the Rev. A. Moody Stuart.

Sir, Foreign Office, May 13, 1852.

I AM directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th instant, on the subject of the expulsion of Messrs. Wingate and Smith from the Austrian Dominions.

If you refer again to my letter of the 28th ultimo, you will see that it is not the Earl of Malmesbury, but the Austrian Government, who accuses Messrs. Wingate and Smith of having violated the laws of the Empire. Her Majesty's Government cannot argue with Austria on the nature of those laws. They are known to be intolerant on matters of religion, and it was at every risk, and in defiance of personal danger and inconvenience, that these missionaries, like hundreds of their religious fraternity who have preceded them in various parts of the world, attempted to propagate their sacred doctrines. It is, however, incumbent on Her Majesty's Government to refer your counter-statement to the Austrian Government, to show, if possible, that Messrs. Smith and Wingate did not break the Austrian law, and were therefore unjustly treated by the Austrian Government, and this the Earl of Malmesbury will do without delay.

I am at the same time to inform you that it is clear from the despatches of Her Majesty's Minister at Vienna, that the Austrian Government will not tolerate religious proselytism, and will not forego the legal rights of expelling all who attempt to spread conversion; and the Earl of Malmesbury has therefore little hope of obtaining a compensation for any losses of property which are claimed by Messrs. Smith and Wingate. The Earl of Westmorland has been instructed to ascertain the present position of this property, and has already applied for details to the Austrian Government.

The Earl of Malmesbury cannot refrain from again refuting as untrue and deploring as ungrateful, the statement which you repeat, that Her Majesty's Minister at the Court of Vienna did not use his influence in behalf of Messrs. Smith and Wingate. The inclosed memorandum,* drawn up and signed by the Honourable William Grey, First Attaché to Her Majesty's Mission at Vienna, will show that it was to the Earl of Westmorland's influence only that those gentlemen owe the permission to leave Vienna by easy stages during the sickness of the child; and the Earl of Malmesbury directs me to reiterate the fact that the Earl of Westmorland has been indefatigable in his endeavours to induce the Austrian Government to take a more indulgent view of their mission.

* See No. 12.

The Earl of Malmesbury regrets to add, that the difficulties Lord Westmorland has met with have not been diminished by the unwise and premature publication of speeches calculated to irritate the Austrian Government during the progress of the negotiation which were made at meetings in Scotland and elsewhere.

I am, &c.

The Earl of Malmesbury to the Earl of Westmorland.

My Lord, Foreign Office, May 18, 1852.

WITH reference to your Lordship's despatch of the 20th ultimo, forwarding the reply returned by the Austrian Government to the representation made by your Lordship as regards the expulsion of Messrs. Wingate, Smith, and Edward, I inclose to your Lordship copies of a correspondence which has passed with the Committee of the Free Church of Scotland on this subject; and I have to instruct your Lordship, in accordance with the promises made to that Committee in the letter which I caused to be addressed to them on the 13th instant, to communicate to the Austrian Government the counter-statement made on behalf of the expelled missionaries. Her Majesty's Government expect that your Lordship will spare no trouble in investigating the truth between these contradictory declarations of the two parties. It is not within the sphere of their duty to argue on the nature of the laws of Austria, but it is nevertheless incumbent upon them to ascertain whether British subjects have been punished in accordance with the Austrian law as established at the time when the alleged offence was committed by Messrs. Smith and Wingate.

No. 35.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received May 31.)

My Lord, Vienna, May 25, 1852.

I HAVE the honour of acknowledging the receipt of your Lordship's despatch of the 18th instant, together with its inclosures; and I must return my sincere thanks to your Lordship for the handsome manner in which you have done me justice in the defence of my conduct in the case of the missionaries Messrs. Wingate, Smith, and Edward. I assure your Lordship that I believe it was impossible for any person to have exerted himself with greater zeal and constancy than I have done (under the instructions I received), to serve and forward the claims of those gentlemen, however unwilling they appear to be to admit it. That I was not able to take steps in their favour at the moment of their expulsion, was occasioned (as your Lordship will be aware from my correspondence) by no fault of mine; but from the time I became acquainted with the circumstances attending their removal from the country, I feel satisfied I have to the utmost fulfilled my duty to Her Majesty's Government and to these gentlemen, who, together with their supporters, appear to be so little satisfied with my proceedings.

In accordance with your Lordship's instructions, I communicated to Count Buol the letter addressed to you by the Rev. A. Moody Stuart, in reply to your Lordship's letter to that gentleman of the 28th of April; and I now proceed to report to you the remarks upon the statements contained in that document which were made to me by that Minister.

Count Buol did not contest the statement of Mr. Stuart, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith had proceeded to Pesth with the intention of carrying out the conversion of the Jews, which was not illegal, if to a confession legally recognised in Austria, but which the confession of these gentlemen was not, as well as to supply divine service to the British residents; but he stated that no exercise of the functions of a clergyman or of public teachers was admitted in Austria, except under regulations sanctioned by the competent official authority, which in the case of these gentlemen had not been granted, and although a deviation from the established regulations had for a considerable time been tolerated in this case, no legal title could be established thereby, and the Austrian Government could not lose its right to put a stop to the proceedings whenever they thought it necessary to do so.

Count Buol remarked upon the next statement in Mr. Stuart's letter, that the Austrian Empire had Ministers of their own in the different persuasions of Christianity, who were examples of Christian holiness and love, and who were employed in the sacred duties of administering to the service of the Church, and of attending to the religious education of their fellow-countrymen, therefore no foreigner could have a legal right to undertake (without a special appointment to that effect) the duties which are confided to the national ministers and teachers, and consequently, that the conversion of the children of Catholic parents, or of the teachers in the school established by the missionaries, which was partly admitted in Mr. Stuart's letter, could have been sanctioned by no legal authority whatsoever.

With respect to the statement in Mr. Stuart's letter, that the missionaries distributed Bibles and other books in Hebrew and other languages, but that they adapted their proceedings to all existing laws, Count Buol remarked that as early as the 12th of March, 1851, the application made to the Minister of the Interior to sanction the publication and distribution of Bibles through Protestant Ministers and booksellers had been refused; and he conceives Messrs. Wingate and Smith must have been aware of this decision, which had been come to with no view of preventing the distribution of the Bible,—for there is no restraint in Austria to its publication or sale by persons authorized to that effect,—but to prevent its being carried on by foreign agency, as it interfered with the rights and privileges of their own subjects.

Upon the statement by Mr. Stuart, that "the whole tangible offence as set forth in the paragraph (which he quotes) consisted in the missionaries being Britons and not Hungarians," Count Buol remarked that he only objected to the words "whole tangible offence," but to the rest of this sentence he assented; in as far as it was the desire and intention of the Austrian Government that the religious instruction of their subjects and the service of their churches, in the different persuasions to which they belonged, should be confided to the regularly established ministers of their own country, and not to foreigners, over whose doctrines, education, or loyalty, they could have no controul. He believed this was not the case in England, and therefore he was not surprised Mr. Stuart should have remarked upon it; but the Austrian Government must adapt themselves to Austrian regulations and convictions.

With respect to Mr. Stuart's remark as to the property of the missionaries, Count Buol stated that in conformity with the desire which I had expressed in the memorandum I had forwarded to him on the 3rd of this month, he had directed inquiries to be made upon this subject in Pesth, by the competent authorities, and that he was awaiting the reply, upon which he was anxious to come to the most favourable decision; and I took this opportunity of again pressing upon him your Lordship's most anxious desire, as well as my own, that he would take into his consideration all the circumstances of this case, which I had so frequently brought before him, and that he would employ his good offices with the Minister of the Interior to allow such compensation as might tend to mitigate the distress which persons engaged in the ministry of their holy religion must have suffered by their separation from those who looked upon them as their spiritual guides and teachers, as from the manner in which they were removed from the country.

No. 36.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 7.)

My Lord, Vienna, June 2, 1852.

COUNT BUOL has communicated to me the further information as to the removal of Mr. Edward from Lemberg, which he had promised me in his note of the 25th of April, a copy of which was transmitted to your Lordship in my despatch of the 26th April.

It appears by the statement of Count Buol, that the authorities of Lemberg had by a note signed by Major-General Lilienborn, and addressed to Mr. Edward on the 23rd of December, 1851, a translation of which I inclose, annulled the order of the 17th of December, by which that gentleman was instructed to leave Lemberg by the end of that month, and had informed him that the authorities of the town had been directed to refer the whole of his case to the Ministry for Instruction and Religion in Vienna, and that until their decision was made known, he was at liberty to remain in the town of Lemberg.

It appears, therefore, as no further communication was made to Mr. Edward, that there was no reason for his departure from the Austrian States at the time he determined to undertake his journey; and this would seem to be entirely established by the assurances which have been given me both by Count Galizchofsky, the Governor of Gallicia, who is at present in Vienna, and by the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, who state that they in no way desired that Mr. Edward should leave Lemberg, but only that he should refrain from holding his religious meetings till the competent authorities had decided upon the case submitted to them; and Baron Bach was in the belief that he was remaining there after his return from Vienna to which place he had proceeded (when the note of General Lilienborn of the 23rd of December had been delivered to him) to learn the decision of the Government upon his petition.

When Mr. Edward came to Vienna and called upon me, I informed him of the steps I had taken to obtain the object of his application; and I recommended him to wait at Vienna till the Government had replied to the memorandum I had transmitted to them; and I afterwards, upon hearing from Mr. Grey that he desired to return to Lemberg, applied to Prince Edmond Schwarzenberg to grant him that permission if he asked for it, who assured me he would do so; but he afterwards told me that Mr. Edward had never applied to him; and there appears to have been no necessity for his doing so, as he returned to Lemberg without Prince Schwarzenberg's interference. But why he left that capital to undertake the arduous journey to Breslau, is what the authorities in Vienna have not been able to discover. They know of no order issued to him after the note of General Lilienborn; and if Mr. Edward received any subsequent one, they have requested to be furnished with a copy of it; and they are anxious to obtain it, because, as no decision was taken upon the application I had made on behalf of Mr. Edward, any order to leave the country before such decision had been come to, and which I had requested him to wait for, would be in direct contradiction of the note which had been transmitted to him on the 23rd of December from General Lilienborn.

I have, &c.
(Signed) WESTMORLAND.

P.S.—Since writing the preceding part of this despatch, I have received from the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, the memorandum, a copy of which I inclose, by which your Lordship will perceive that the decision by the Ministries of the Interior and of Ecclesiastical Affairs upon the application of Mr. Edward, which had been transmitted from Lemberg to Vienna, was only come to on the 20--21st of February, when it was transmitted to the authorities at Lemberg, to be communicated to that gentleman; but it could not be communicated to him, as he had already left that capital and the Austrian States on the 30th of January, so that he appears to have proceeded on his journey to Breslau without waiting for the decision of the Government, and without any order whatever from the authorities to quit the country.

Sir, Lemberg, December 23, 1851.

IN answer to your renewed petition to the chief authorities for the state of siege, requesting permission to recommence your religious lectures and meetings in your own house, the said authorities, by an order of the 21st instant, have instructed the commanding authorities of the town to refer your whole case to the Ministry for Instruction and Religion in Vienna; and until their decision is made known, you have to await it, and therefore are permitted until then to remain in the town of Lemberg.

No order having been issued to the contrary, you must still continue to refrain from holding your religious meetings in your house.

Inclosure 2 in No. 36.

Memorandum from Baron Bach.

MR. EDWARD a reçu le premier ordre de prendre ailleurs son domicile par le chef de police à Lemberg en Gallicie, le 17 Décembre, 1851. Il a réclamé contre cet ordre auprès des autorités de la Gallicie, et spécialement auprès du Général-Major Lilienborn, commandant en Gallicie. Le Général, par sa note du 23 Décembre, lui a accordé un délai, et lui a donné la permission de rester à Lemberg jusqu'à ce que sa requête présentée au Ministre des Cultes aurait eu sa décision définitive.

En même temps le Général lui a donné la permission de voyager à Vienne, pour pouvoir y solliciter son affaire lui-même.

Mr. Edward vint alors les premiers jours de cette année à Vienne, s'y présenta aux Ministères des Cultes et de l'Intérieur pour expliquer son affaire, et fut averti qu'il avait à attendre la décision à Lemberg. En même temps il eut, d'après sa demande spéciale, son passeport visé pour retourner à Lemberg.

En attendant, la correspondance entre les Ministères des Cultes, de l'Intérieur, et des Affaires Etrangères, avait différé la solution définitive de cette affaire, ainsi que l'arrêté définitif sur la requête de Mr. Edward adressée au Ministre des Cultes ne s'opéra que sous le 20 et 21 Février, 1852, sous quelle date un ordre fut expédié aux autorités de la Gallicie, statuant que la demande de Mr. Edward de continuer sa mission dans les Etats de Sa Majesté Impériale et Royale ne pouvait point être accordée, et que les autorités du pays aient à donner à Mr. Edward le délai désirable pour régler ses affaires, lequel échu, il aurait à prendre son passeport pour quitter l'Empire.

Cet ordre arriva vers la fin du mois de Février à Lemberg, mais ne pouvait plus être communiqué à Mr. Edward, parceque celui-ci avait déjà quitté les Etats Impériaux le 30 Janvier, 1852, spontanément, et sans attendre la décision du Gouvernement.

(Translation.)

MR. EDWARD received the first order to take up his abode elsewhere through the chief of the police at Lemberg in Gallicia, on the 17th of December, 1851. He made a representation against this order to the authorities in Gallicia, and more especially to Major-General Lilienborn, commanding in Gallicia. By a note, dated the 23rd of December, the General agreed to a delay, and allowed him to remain at Lemberg until his petition, which had been presented to the Minister of Worship, should have been finally decided upon.

The General at the same time gave him permission to proceed to Vienna, in order there to advocate his own cause.

Mr. Edward accordingly arrived at Vienna in the first days of the present year, and waited upon the Ministers of Worship and of the Interior, to explain his case, and was informed that he must await the decision at Lemberg. On his especial request he had his passport countersigned for his return to Lemberg at the same time.

In the meantime, the correspondence which took place between the Ministers of Worship, of the Interior, and for Foreign Affairs, had delayed the final settlement of this affair, owing to which the definitive decision on the petition addressed by Mr. Edward to the Minister of Worship was not taken till the 20th and 21st of February, 1852, on which date an order was dispatched to the authorities of Gallicia, to the effect that the demand of Mr. Edward to continue his mission in the States of His Imperial and Royal Majesty could not be granted, and that the authorities of the country should allow Mr. Edward the requisite time to regulate his affairs, on the expiration of which he would have to obtain his passport for the purpose of leaving the Empire.

This order arrived at Lemberg towards the end of the month of February, but could not be communicated to Mr. Edward, because he had already left the Imperial States of his own accord on the 30th January, 1852, and without awaiting the decision of the Government.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 7.)

My Lord, Vienna, June 2, 1852.

I HAVE the honour to transmit to your Lordship the translation of the note which I have received from Count Buol on the subject of the Rev. Mr. Edward of Lemberg, and to which I have referred in my other despatch to your Lordship of this day.

In this note Count Buol speaks of an indemnity for Mr. Edward, which he objects to allow; but I have explained to him that no indemnity was asked for, and that the allusion to it must have arisen from some misapprehension. The note signed by Major-General Lilienborn, and addressed to Mr. Edward on the 23rd of December last, and inclosed in the note of Count Buol, is transmitted to your Lordship in my despatch of this day to which I have above alluded.

Count Buol to the Earl of Westmorland.

(Translation.) Vienna, May 31, 1852.

HIS Imperial and Apostolic Majesty's Minister for Foreign Affairs has the honour, in continuation to the communication of the 28th ultimo respecting the removal of Mr. Daniel Edward from Lemberg, to communicate the following details, which he has just received, to the Earl of Westmorland.

On his arrival at Lemberg, Mr. Daniel Edward declared that the object of his mission was solely and exclusively the conversion of the Jews.

The Imperial authorities, therefore, gave him the necessary authorization for that purpose, but for that purpose alone, and instructed him to hold his lectures only in his own house. It was thereby naturally meant that those lectures should only take place before Jews.

Mr. Edward, however, in no way confined himself to this audience, but, on the contrary, generally held his lectures before an assembly of Christians, and even induced many members of the Roman Catholic Church to attend them.

This circumstance naturally called forth many complaints against Mr. Edward on the part of the Archbishop of Lemberg. In consequence, therefore, of Mr. Edward having in no way kept to the order he had received, to hold religious lectures in his house alone, and no where else, but, on the contrary, having preached to a Christian congregation in the manufacturing village

Vinniki (one mile's distance from Lemberg); and having also transgressed the laws of the country by the unauthorized distribution of Bibles, for which several complaints had been made against him; in consequence, therefore, of the above-named transgression, the Imperial authorities of Gallicia acted entirely in accordance with the existing laws, when they informed Mr. Edward, as a foreigner, that he had to leave the country.

The Earl of Westmorland will surely now acknowledge himself, that under the circumstances, Mr. Edward can have no claim for indemnification for his supposed losses in consequence of his removal from the country; and the Imperial Government would not be justified in granting one, considering that the Lemberg authorities had, by note to Mr. Edward dated 23rd of December, annulled the order of the 17th of December, by which he was instructed to leave Lemberg by the end of that month, leaving it entirely to his own free-will to fix the date of his departure, and giving him thereby all the time he might require to settle his own private and family business.

The Undersigned has the honour to inclose a copy of the above-mentioned document of the 23rd of December, and to return that of the 17th with his best thanks; and avails, &c.

No. 38.

Lord Stanley to the Rev. A. Moody Stuart.

Sir, Foreign Office, June 11, 1852.

I AM directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to inform you that a reply has been received from the Austrian Government to the representations which Her Majesty's Minister at Vienna had been instructed to make on the subject of the expulsion of Mr. Edward from the Austrian Dominions.

It is stated in that reply, that Mr. Edward, on his arrival at Lemberg, declared that the object of his mission was solely and exclusively the conversion to Christianity of members of the Jewish faith. Authority was on this given to Mr. Edward to follow up that object, coupled with the condition that his lectures should be delivered only in his own house, and in the presence of Jews. It is further stated that Mr. Edward did not conform to this condition, that he preached before mixed assemblies of Jews and Christians; that he induced several members of the Roman Catholic Church to attend such lectures, and that he moreover did not confine himself to preaching in his own house, but addressed a Christian Congregation in the manufacturing village of Vinniki, at some distance from Lemberg. As several complaints were made to the authorities, of these proceedings, those authorities acted in perfect conformity with the laws of Austria in addressing to Mr. Edward, on the 17th of December last, a notice to quit the country by the end of the month. Against this order Mr. Edward is stated to have protested, and Major-General Lilienborn, the Governor of Lemberg, in consideration of such remonstrance, addressed to Mr. Edward a letter dated the 23rd of December, giving him permission to remain at Lemberg until his case should have been decided upon by the Minister of Public Worship at Vienna. Major-General Lilienborn, moreover, gave Mr. Edward permission to proceed to Vienna, for the purpose of pleading his cause. He, however, at the same time, ordered Mr. Edward, until the decision should be known, to abstain from holding his religious meetings. On the arrival of Mr Edward at Vienna he was informed that he must await at Lemberg the decision to be given by the Austrian Government, and his passport, at his special request, was countersigned for his return.

The Minister of Public Worship did not give his decision until the 20th of February, 1852, and on the 21st an order was sent to the authorities of Gallicia to inform Mr. Edward that his petition to remain could not be acceded to, but at the same time to allow Mr. Edward all necessary time to settle his affairs. On the arrival of this order at Lemberg it could not be communicated to Mr. Edward, as that gentleman had already quitted the Austrian Dominions of his own accord, on the 30th of January preceding. The Austrian Government professes itself entirely ignorant of the causes which induced Mr. Edward to take this step, or of any further order issued to him subsequent to the letter from General Lilienborn of the 23rd of December, 1851. Should Mr. Edward, however, have received any such order, the Austrian Government would wish to be furnished with a copy of it, as it would be in direct contradiction to the notification made to Mr. Edward on the 23rd of December.

I am now directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to request that if Mr. Edward has received such a subsequent order, he will furnish his Lordship with a copy for communication to the Austrian Government, and further to ask whether Mr. Edward has any observations to make as regards the accuracy of the foregoing statement.

My Lord, Vienna, June 9, 1852.

I HAVE not yet received a reply to the memorandum I presented to Count Buol on the 3rd ultimo, on the subject of a compensation for the losses occasioned to Messrs. Wingate and Smith by their sudden removal from Pesth, and which memorandum, as I stated in my despatch of the 25th ultimo, had been transmitted to the authorities in Pesth, in order that they might report upon it. Count Buol has now informed me that, in consequence of my various solicitations to obtain this reply, a further application has been made to the Archduke Albert, who has reported that the answer of the Hungarian authorities will be transmitted to Vienna immediately, and Count Buol has promised that he will lose no time in transmitting to me his report upon it. I will not fail immediately to forward this decision to your Lordship, which I hope may be of a favourable character, and which may bring to a close this protracted and painful discussion.

My Lord, Vienna, June 12, 1852.

I HAVE the honour of submitting to your Lordship the reply of the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, to the memorandum I addressed to Count Buol on the 3rd of May, on the subject of the compensation claimed by Messrs. Wingate and Smith, for losses incurred by them on their removal from Pesth.

By this document your Lordship will perceive that Baron Bach transmitted my memorandum to the authorities at Pesth, directing them to examine into the claims for compensation therein set forth, and to transmit to him the result of their investigations; and he has now embodied this result in his report to Count Buol, in which he expresses the opinion, that after the authentic statement of the case which has been made to him, there exists no reason to grant the compensation claimed by those gentlemen.

I have the honour of inclosing a translation of this report, together with a précis of the documents which accompany it, which has been made by Mr. Odo Russell from the originals which have been placed in my hands.

Inclosure 1 in No. 40.

Baron Bach to Count Buol.

IT has pleased your Excellency to transmit to me for my consideration a further memorandum from the Earl of Westmorland, relative to the missionaries Wingate and Smith, who were removed from Pesth. It is stated in this memorandum, that the said missionaries were compelled by the order issued for their removal from Pesth, to sell their property at a great loss and much below its worth; and the claim made by the said missionaries for compensation, as well as their demand for indemnity for the expenses incurred on their journey for themselves, and for the transport of their property, and for the rent of their house and chapel, &c., is recommended by the British Legation to the consideration of the Imperial Government.

I therefore took steps to have a new investigation made by the local authorities of Pesth, and I am thereby enabled to inform your Excellency of the result, which is as follows:—

By the annexed original Protocols it is proved that the assertion of the said missionaries, that they had not time enough left them to sell their property, and that they were compelled to sell it much below its real worth, is entirely incorrect.

By the statement made in those Protocols by their own commissioner, Lederer, and by the coinciding statement of the purchaser of their property, Brill, as well as of the Countess Kendeffy, who took Mr. Wingate's lodgings, and of the housekeeper of the house in which he lived, it is clearly stated that they not only had the necessary time to sell that part of their property they did not intend to take with them, but, on the contrary, they sold it at very good prices; and it appears that the said gentlemen had the effects, which were for sale, valued by a competent agent, and, according to his valuation, had fixed the prices themselves, under which fixed price the effects have not been sold. All present agreed that the sale was a favourable one, and that under no circumstances could it have been expected to be better. The prices given by the purchaser Brill, agree generally with the value of goods of that kind, and it is therefore the less to be supposed that the said missionaries have experienced any loss, as articles of the same sort are to be bought new at the same prices, and because, from the great influx of strangers in Pesth, second-hand furniture was at the time much sought after.

Further, it appears from the report of their own commissioner, Lederer, that they took home with them those articles which were the most valuable and most easily transported, as well as the library itself, and that other larger sorts of furniture, such as a piano and a pulpit, &c., are still at their disposal in the house of the Reverend Banhofer.

After this authentic statement of the case, there can exist no reason for which any compensation ought to be made for the sale of the said furniture; and I think I may express the conviction that the said statement will furnish the proof to the British Government, that the expenses charged and claimed by the said missionaries are not supported by facts, and clearly prove that they have been incorrectly stated.

The claims for the cost of their journey and transport of their effects, as well as indemnity for the rent of their house and chapel, are equally erroneous, as will be seen from the communications already made to your Excellency, on the removal of the said missionaries from Pesth (this measure being fully borne out and justified by the Austrian laws); and therefore no doubt can exist that the cost of their journey from Hungary to Scotland should be borne by themselves, as under any circumstances they must have been obliged to do on their return home. It also appears from the accompanying documents, that the said gentlemen have experienced no loss from their removal from their house in Pesth, as their habitation was immediately taken by another tenant at the same rent; and the said rent has already been paid by the said tenant.

Inclosure 2 in No. 40.

Abstract of Evidence by Robert Lederer, Stephen Schmidt, Georg Banhofer, Sigmund Brill, Rosalia Countess Kendeffy, and Barbara Ademan, relative to the sale of Messrs. Wingate and Smith's Property.

(Translation.)

ON the 21st of May, 1852, Robert Lederer, commissioner and hawker to the missionaries Wingate and Smith, since 1845, stated before the police authorities at Buda, that after being in the service of the said gentlemen from 1845 up to the beginning of this year, he had by their order helped them in the necessary arrangements for the sale of their effects, the greater part of which had been bought by a Jewish furniture-dealer; and that Wingate's house and a part of his furniture had been taken by a Countess whose name he did not know; that the furniture not being very new, and having all been sold at very good prices, he could not consider Messrs. Wingate and Smith as having sustained any serious losses; and he believed, for his part, that Mr. Wingate's greatest loss must have been in the sale of his kitchen furniture, which had been sold for 30 florins, and had cost him 80 florins. As for Smith, he did not think he had much to lose. The library and various valuable articles were packed up and taken away; he himself had helped them to do so. He believed that the last quarter due for the hire of the chapel had been paid by Mr. Saphir of Pesth. He knew that the Reverend Banhofer had the pulpit and a piano to take care of for those gentlemen, but he was not aware what was their intention as to these two articles.

Stephen Schmidt, teacher in the Protestant school at Buda since 1848, stated also before the police authorities on the 21st of May, 1852, that, on hearing that the missionaries Wingate and Smith were going to sell their furniture, he went to their house to purchase various articles of which he was in want; but was informed on arriving there, that everything was sold.

The Rev. Banhofer had a piano and a dictionary belonging to Mr. Smith; he believed also a bed and the pulpit belonging to those gentlemen was in the Protestant Church at Buda.

The Rev. Banhofer, preacher in the Protestant Church at Buda, stated before the police authorities on the 29th of May, that the missionary Smith had made him a present of a four-post bed; he had also sent him a piano and some books; these he believed he was to take care of. Wingate had made him a present of a wooden chair, and that was all he had received from those gentlemen.

Sigmund Brill, furniture-dealer in Pesth, stated on the 27th of May before the police authorities, that he had bought the greater part of Messrs. Wingate and Smith's effects; that he had paid a very good price for them, these gentlemen having had their property valued by a competent authority, and he had given them what they asked, although no one else would have paid so much. He had sold nearly all again, and had not made more than 10 per cent. on them. He thought they had sold their effects very advantageously.

Countess Kendeffy stated on the 2nd of June before the police authorities, that she hired Mr. Wingate's house at the time he left Pesth, and that she entered it immediately after his departure; that she paid her first quarter, and bought some few articles of furniture that were in the house, and belonged to Mr. Wingate.

Barbara Ademan, housekeeper in the house inhabited by Mr. Wingate, stated on the 3rd June before the police authorities, that an immense crowd of people had come to inspect his furniture; that the prices fixed upon previously by a competent authority were written on every article of furniture; that every one complained of the very high prices, saying that the articles could not be dearer if they were new; that Mr. Wingate had not allowed one single article to be sold under the fixed price; that nearly everything had been bought by a man of the name of Brill; and that every one had said at the time, that Messrs. Wingate and Smith had sold their property remarkably well; and that Countess Kendeffy had taken Mr. Wingate's lodgings and was living in them at present.

The Earl of Westmorland to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 16.)

My Lord, Vienna, June 12, 1852.

I HAVE the honour of inclosing a translation of the note of Count Buol by which he transmits to me the report made to him by the Minister of the Interior, Baron Bach, upon the result of the investigations which he had caused to be made upon the claims for compensation by Messrs. Wingate and Smith, which I had put forward in the various applications I had made on this subject, and more particularly in my memorandum of the 3rd of May.

Count Buol states in this note the reasons assigned by Baron Bach for not agreeing to the claims of Messrs. Wingate and Smith for compensation, as he considers that no case has been made out in favour of it, either for losses on the sale of the furniture, for the rent of the house, or for the expenses of the journey home.

Count Buol, therefore, is unable to come to any other determination, and he submits to your Lordship all the information upon which this decision has been arrived at, but at the same time he states his readiness, in consideration of the applications made upon this subject, to contribute towards the personal travelling expenses of these gentlemen, if your Lordship should think fit to propose it to them.

I have, &c.

Inclosure in No. 41.

Count Buol to the Earl of Westmorland.

A MEMORANDUM has been transmitted by the Earl of Westmorland to the Undersigned, Minister for Foreign Affairs, in which his Lordship again puts forward the claims of the missionaries Wingate and Smith, under the heads of losses sustained by them (in consequence of their sudden removal from Pesth) through the sale of their furniture, as well as by being obliged to give up the house rented by them, and also to a compensation for the expenses of their journey.

In order to ascertain accurately upon what grounds Messrs. Wingate and Smith found their claims, the Undersigned requested the Minister of the Interior to cause these statements to be investigated and verified in as authentic a manner as possible.

The said Minister immediately complied with this request, and has in the inclosed reply most minutely and precisely cleared up the claims of those gentlemen.

The Earl of Westmorland will be convinced from these documents that the claims made by the said missionaries, in consequence of losses sustained by them, are not borne out, and for this reason alone, without reference to any other grounds, the claims for compensation of Messrs. Wingate and Smith are totally inadmissible.

Further, with reference to the claim made by these gentlemen for the payment of the expenses of their journey, the Imperial Government does not consider itself in any way bound to grant them, as the removal of Messrs. Wingate and Smith from Pesth (as the Undersigned had the honour to inform the Earl of Westmorland on the 19th of April) was caused by their infringement of existing orders, and was quite in accordance with the laws existing in Austria.

However, in consequence of the repeated and urgent representation of Lord Westmorland in favour of the two missionaries, and as their circumstances would appear to admit of it, the Imperial Government, in consideration of this esteemed representation, is ready to contribute to each of the missionaries a proportionate sum (under the head of travelling expenses), provided they are willing to accept the same, upon which point a further explanation is looked for.

I AM directed by the Earl of Malmesbury to transmit to you the accompanying abstract* of the evidence taken before the authorities at Pesth, as to the losses alleged to have been sustained by Messrs. Wingate and Smith, owing to the sale of their property on their expulsion from that city; and I am to request that you will communicate the same to those gentlemen, and that you will inform them that the Earl of Malmesbury wishes to know what they have to state against the truth of this evidence.

Further Correspondence respecting the Assault committed on Mr. Erskine Mather at Florence.

No. 1.

The Earl of Malmesbury to Sir Henry Bulwer.

Sir, Foreign Office, May 29, 1852.

WITH regard to the course which Her Majesty's Government now require the Tuscan Government to pursue in order to bring the vexatious discussion respecting Mr. Mather's case to a close, I have to state to you that Her Majesty's Government expect: first, that the Duke of Casigliano's note of the 10th of May, containing the objectionable expressions in regard to the motives by which the Grand Duke was actuated in granting 1000 francesconi to Mr. Erskine Mather shall be withdrawn; Mr. Scarlett's note of the 11th of May in reply being also as a matter of course cancelled: secondly, that the Tuscan Government shall distinctly admit the principle that Tuscany is bound, either through her courts of law or through her Executive Government, to protect Englishmen in Tuscany against the violence of Austrian soldiers: thirdly, that the Tuscan Government shall convey to that of Her Majesty an ample expression of regret for the wrong inflicted on Mr. Erskine Mather, in words equivalent to those used by Prince Schwarzenberg in his despatch to Count Buol of the 12th of March, of which a copy was transmitted to Mr. Scarlett in my despatch of the 9th of April.

If the Tuscan Government consents to these demands, Her Majesty's Government have no wish to press for any pecuniary compensation to Mr. Mather. That gentleman's father, as you will perceive by the inclosed copy of his letter of the 27th instant, expresses himself indifferent as regards that point; and Her Majesty's Government have heretofore insisted upon it as much from the practical proof which such payment would have afforded of the admission by the Tuscan Government of its responsibility for the acts of the Austrian officer, as from a desire that some substantial atonement should be made to the sufferer by those acts.

If the Tuscan Government refuses to accede to these demands, nothing will remain for you but to make arrangements for quitting the Grand Ducal Court.

As the Tuscan Government have long been aware of the nature of the demand of Her Majesty's Government, and of the principle on which Her Majesty's Government insist, they cannot require much time to come to a decision on the question as it now stands. I will not specify any exact time within which you are to require to be made acquainted with the decision of the Tuscan Government; but it is obvious that the decision should be taken by the Tuscan Government itself, and not at the instigation of any foreign Court; and therefore you will not be justified in allowing a sufficient time to elapse for a reference to Vienna, before the determination of the Tuscan Government is made known to you.

If you are unfortunately obliged to quit Florence, you will, in applying for passports, notify the time of your intended departure to the Duke of Casigliano, and express to him your regret that under the circumstances of the case you are precluded from taking leave of the Grand Duke.

You will then proceed, as you may think most advisable, either to Parma or Modena, to which Courts you are accredited, taking with you the several members of the Mission, and sending, if you find it convenient to do so, the archives of the Mission to Her Majesty's Consul at Leghorn for safe custody.

I am, &c.

No. 2.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 25.)

My Lord, Florence, June 18, 1852.

AFTER receiving your Lordship's communications of the 29th of May relative to the arrangement that had been made by Mr. Scarlett, I had a long interview with the Duke of Casigliano. The Duke expressed himself exceedingly surprised and pained at the reopening of an affair which, he said that, he deemed closed, inasmuch as it had been settled on the basis of a note which he had received from Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires, and that it had been subsequently defended by your Lordship in Parliament; he then continued to say that the opinion of the Council was against any further concessions.

My first duty seemed to me to convince the Duke of Casigliano that the conduct of Her Majesty's Government had been perfectly straightforward; that Mr. Scarlett had not only exceeded his instructions, but had unfortunately acted in opposition to them; and that when your Lordship passed an opinion upon this affair, it was upon the imperfect impression thereof which had been produced by Mr. Barron's first communication of the 9th; and in order to establish such conviction, I read to the Duke passages of your Lordship's communication to me of the 21st, of Mr. Barron's letter of the 9th of May, and other such papers as seemed to me to bear upon this point. I then told the Duke that, after the strong and continued expression of an opinion which Her Majesty's Government held, viz., that the Government of Tuscany was responsible for all acts done in Tuscany, it was impossible for your Lordship to receive any reparation which did not clearly admit this principle. I then read to the Duke the whole of your Lordship's despatch of the 29th of May, and after I had promised to send him a copy of the same, and to write to him a note repeating the substance of the principal arguments I had used in conversation, we separated; the Duke having shown throughout this conversation a very conciliatory spirit, but an apparent belief that we had entered upon a negotiation which it would be very difficult to conduct to a happy issue.

My next care was to furnish the Duke of Casigliano with a copy of your Lordship's despatch of the 29th of May, according to my promise, which I did in a note, of which I here inclose a copy, and which repeated almost verbatim the remarks I had previously made in conversation.

I deemed it advisable to commence that note by forestalling the arguments which might otherwise be again used against re-opening the discussion by frankly admitting the facts that had taken place, and which might have justified the belief that Mr. Scarlett's settlement had the sanction of Her Majesty's Government; and then explaining the real position in which that affair stood.

The rest of my note is addressed to the main object I had in view, and which I naturally desired to place before the Tuscan Government in such a manner as would best vindicate our rights, and least shock its susceptibilities.

This note, I may venture to say, produced a considerable and favourable impression; I deemed it, however, well to inform the Tuscan Minister, at the same time, though not officially, that I should only await his reply till Wednesday morning.

I will not trouble your Lordship by entering into further details as to the different meetings and conversations which took place between myself and the Duke in the interval; but on Wednesday I received a note, which I could not consider as altogether unsatisfactory, but which, at the same time, did not seem to me expressed sufficiently clearly to place beyond all doubt the position in which Tuscany considered herself placed with respect to foreign subjects in certain exceptional cases; respecting which cases, as I deemed the main point of my negotiation to be involved therein, I conceived that the language used (though of course I could not dictate the precise words) should be free from all ambiguity that might seem intentional.

These objections on my part were considered by the Tuscan Government, and submitted to the Grand Duke; and the final result was the document as it now stands, and which I deem it my duty to receive and submit to your Lordship.

The difficulties I have had to overcome were:—

1st. The inducing the Tuscan Government to enter anew into the discussion of a business which it had been summoned to conclude in a particular manner by Her Majesty's late Chargé d'Affaires, and had concluded in that manner.

2ndly. The inducing of the Tuscan Government to recognize as null and of no more effect than if they had never existed, the aforesaid proposal of Mr. Scarlett, and the correspondence which ensued in consequence of that proposal.

3rdly. The inducing the said Government to make a satisfactory amende in an ample expression of regret for Mr. Mather's misfortune,—an amende, however, which I must only in justice say it was perfectly willing to render; and 4thly. I had under very disadvantageous circumstances to procure from the Government of Tuscany the recognition of a principle which up to the date of the Duke's present note it had always shrunk from admitting, and had indeed declared it could not admit.

All this I have at last done; and taking the whole tenor of the correspondence which I forward to your Lordship into consideration, I think it may be accepted as satisfactory.

I have not deemed it wise to humble or humiliate this State unnecessarily. It seems to me our policy, on the contrary, to sustain and encourage its just pride and independence, to which indeed many of our arguments throughout this affair have been addressed. But, on the other hand, I have deemed it wise to uphold unflinchingly that opinion which we set out by professing, and thus to leave no doubt as to the firmness of our conduct on any important principle which may hereafter be at issue.

I have, &c.

Inclosure 1 in No. 2.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Duke of Casigliano.

Sir, Florence, June 11, 1852.

I DO myself the honour of inclosing to your Excellency herewith, the copy of a despatch which I have already read to you, relative to the case of Mr. Mather, and the manner in which a settlement thereof was made by Mr. Scarlett.

I am desirous in the first place at once and frankly to admit, that, considering that the proposition on which that settlement was made came from Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires, your Excellency had reason to suppose that this affair was terminated, and moreover that the manner in which that arrangement was lately defended in Parliament, was likely to have confirmed your Excellency in this impression.

It is therefore my desire to explain to your Excellency in the clearest manner, now that I feel myself under the necessity to re-open this negotiation, that my doing so is by no means in real contradiction with the two facts which I have above cited.

Not only did Lord Malmesbury in the instructions which he gave on different occasions to Mr. Scarlett (passages from which instructions are referred to in the inclosed despatch of the 29th), most uniformly affirm that an indemnity was required for Mr. Mather, partly as a compensation to that gentleman, but also more especially as an acknowledgment that the Government of Tuscany was responsible for the security of Her Majesty's subjects within the Tuscan Dominions, but his Lordship clearly and positively expressed this same principle to myself, in the instructions which I received when I was commanded to repair to this Mission, as you will perceive by the subjoined extract:

"For all acts done in Tuscany to the prejudice of British subjects, the British Government must hold the Tuscan Government to be solely responsible.

"The violence against Mr. Mather, which is still unatoned for, is at present the most important of those cases to which I have alluded. * * * And Her Majesty's Government feel it their duty to instruct you not to remit in any manner the principle upon which their last demands are made."

I flatter myself, that after this exposition of the spirit in which Her Majesty's Secretary of State has on all occasions framed the instructions given by him to the different Agents employed with reference to this affair, it will appear to your Excellency sufficiently evident that only one idea has prevailed in Her Majesty's Government concerning it.

But when Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs first received information of the arrangement that had been effected by Mr. Scarlett, it was in a portion of a despatch from Mr. Barron, acting during the illness of Mr. Scarlett, which despatch was dated the 9th of May; and in order that the impression which Mr. Barron's communication was calculated to produce may be fully appreciated by your Excellency, I will here transcribe it:

"I have the honour to acquaint your Lordship, by the desire of Mr. Scarlett, with the following important facts. The Stratford and Mather cases may be considered as settled. These two questions were the subject of an interview between Mr. Scarlett and the Duke of Casigliano on the 5th instant. It was then intimated to Mr. Scarlett by the Tuscan Minister, that an indemnity of 1000 francesconi (or 222*l.* 4*s.*) would be offered to Mr. Mather. Mr. Scarlett's reply was that that sum was far inferior to that which he was instructed to claim, and that one condition alone would induce him to accept it, viz., the immediate release of the Messrs. Stratford. His Excellency answered that the Grand Duke intended to redeem the pledge given by his Ministers on that head, but that it was yet too soon.

"The matter stood in this position till the 7th, when the Duke addressed to Mr. Scarlett a confidential letter informing him that 'His Imperial and Royal Highness the Grand Duke, yielding to his noble impulses, and making use of his Royal Prerogative, consents to the commutation of the Messrs. Stratford's penalty into perpetual banishment from his States.' Mr. Scarlett has desired me to express to the Tuscan Minister his satisfaction at this arrangement, and to report the same to your Lordship. The presence at Leghorn, of Her Majesty's steam-vessel 'Growler,' Commander Stoddart, offers an opportunity for the immediate removal from Tuscany of the Messrs. Stratford. I shall immediately communicate with Commander Stoddart and with the Tuscan Government for that purpose.

"With reference to Mr. Mather's claim, Mr. Scarlett has thought himself justified, after much consideration, in accepting the composition offered. Although it is not so much as could be desired for Mr. Mather, it is as much as could possibly be obtained by negotiation."

Your Excellency will immediately see, on reading the above (which is the precise copy of Mr. Barron's words), that the idea which it naturally carried with it was that the Tuscan Government had proposed to Mr. Scarlett a pecuniary compensation, and that he had accepted such compensation, from which, as nothing was said as to the manner in which such arrangement had been effected, it was naturally to be inferred that the compensation in question had been proposed and accepted according to the principles on which Mr. Scarlett had been instructed to apply for it. The question of amount was the only one alluded to by Mr. Barron as having given rise to any difficulty, and a reason was assigned for accepting a less amount than Her Majesty's Government had instructed Mr. Scarlett to accept, that reason being the liberation of the Messrs. Stratford; a motive which showed at least an earnest and laudable desire on the part of Mr. Scarlett to put an end to all difficulties between Her Majesty's Government and that of His Imperial and Royal Highness.

On these grounds Her Majesty's Government were prepared to accept and defend and did accept and defend Mr. Scarlett's arrangement, considering that the Tuscan Government had thus given a proof of their regret at what had occurred, of their desire to atone for that occurrence, and of their recognition of the principle that British subjects were, when residing in Tuscany, under the protection of the Government of Tuscany, which held itself responsible for their fair treatment. But when a second despatch arrived from Mr. Barron, containing copies of a correspondence that had passed between your Excellency and Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires, they perceived that the arrangement, as explained by that correspondence, was directly the reverse in principle of that which they had previously imagined it to be.

A proposition had come from Mr. Scarlett, and not come from your Excellency, and that proposition commenced by placing altogether out of discussion the main point which Her Majesty's Government did insist and always had insisted upon. It was therefore utterly impossible any longer to accept or defend an arrangement which had hitherto been accepted and defended precisely for reasons which did not apply to it.

The demand which Her Majesty's Government has up to this time made, and which it now makes on the Tuscan Government, for satisfaction with respect to the case of Mr. Mather, is founded on the right that every Government has to expect that its subjects will have impartial justice done to them within the territory of a friendly State by the Government of that State.

The administration of such justice is generally confided by Governments to their legal tribunals; but when a Government closes such tribunals, it takes upon itself those functions, as far as foreign nations are concerned, with which such tribunals were invested.

If, therefore, the Government of Tuscany make a temporary arrangement such as that which it has made, receiving the aid of Austrian troops on the understanding that they are not to be subject to Tuscan law, that Government, if any offence is committed against British subjects by Austrian troops, is bound to administer that justice towards the aggrieved party, which such party cannot obtain from a court of law.

To suppose anything else is either to suppose that the subjects or citizens of friendly States are, in such cases, to have no redress at all (a conclusion which is absurd), or it is to suppose that, for offences committed within His Imperial and Royal Highness' dominions they are to seek for satisfaction from a foreign Power; which would be to establish as a fact, that there is a foreign Power in Tuscany which other nations are to consider as superior to the authority of the Grand Duke himself; and that would of necessity prevent Great Britain from any longer recognizing in the Grand Duke that independent sovereignty which it has hitherto fully recognized.

The satisfaction which Her Majesty's Government, in conformity with these opinions, originally sought, was an award of money to the party injured, because it deemed that it was more fair to him to seek that sort of reparation which would affect him personally, and which a court of law would probably have granted to him. But as Mr. Mather has now declined receiving any pecuniary compensation, Her Majesty's Government feel at liberty to place their demand in another shape; and I am instructed, Mr. Scarlett's note of the 6th May being, as I have explained, disavowed, to require that your Excellency's note of the 10th May should be withdrawn, and Mr. Scarlett's reply thereto cancelled; and furthermore, that the Government of His Imperial and Royal Highness should convey to that of Her Majesty an ample expression of regret at the violence inflicted upon Mr. E. Mather, and an assurance that there was nothing in such violence which is to be considered in the slightest degree as a manifestation of disrespect towards the Queen of Great Britain or the British Nation; and finally, that your Excellency, in the name of the Tuscan Government, should clearly recognize the principle, that the Government of Tuscany, whose duty it is to protect British subjects in Tuscany, is responsible for any acts of violence committed upon such subjects within the Tuscan Territory, whoever the persons committing the said acts of violence may be; and that the executive authority is bound to make due atonement for the same, when such atonement cannot be sought for through the legal tribunals.

Sir, it must always be a matter of regret to me to have to make any demand upon a friendly Government, and especially upon the Government of Tuscany, with which my own Government has maintained for so many years such intimate and valued relations; but such regret in the present instance will be greatly diminished by the consideration that Her Majesty's Government in now instructing me to claim from your Excellency that satisfaction which it deems due to the honour of my country and the safety of my countrymen, has in reality required nothing which it is not clearly in the interest and according to the dignity of the Tuscan Government to grant; for though there may be inconveniences attached to the responsibility which the Tuscan Government is thus requested unequivocally to assume, and that those inconveniences may be somewhat increased by the temporary and peculiar position in which it now stands with respect to the Austrian force employed at this time in Tuscany; such inconveniences are nothing in comparison with the honour and advantage which attach to the frank assumption of all the attributes of that independence which it is the first pride and interest of every Prince and people to possess and preserve unimpaired; and perhaps your Excellency will allow me to express a belief, that Her Majesty's Government is only giving a new proof of its sincere amity towards this State, and of its high respect for the illustrious Prince who rules over it, when it shows a jealous susceptibility as to Tuscany abandoning in any degree that position which it has hitherto so honourably maintained. I flatter myself that this persuasion will have its due weight with one who can so well appreciate the position of Tuscany and the relations of Tuscany with other nations; and that your Excellency will afford me your friendly and enlightened aid in bringing this negotiation, so long pending, to a happy and suitable termination.

But I am obliged to announce to your Excellency that should the Tuscan Government not be ready to grant the reparation which I have been instructed to require, I am then ordered to withdraw Her Majesty's Mission from the Court of Tuscany; and my instructions furthermore enjoin me not to continue this negotiation for more than a very few days.

As the name of Her Majesty's late Chargé d'Affaires has been so frequently mentioned in this note, I cannot conclude it without giving myself the satisfaction of stating that which I know that your Excellency will hear with similar satisfaction, viz., that though Her Majesty's Government has found itself under the necessity of disavowing the arrangement made by Mr. Scarlett in its name, still it fully recognizes the zeal and ability which this gentleman has displayed on a variety of other difficult and trying occasions, and attributes the involuntary error he here fell into, to the effects of that violent indisposition under which, at the date of his letter of the 6th May, he had already begun to suffer.

I avail, &c.

Inclosure 2 in No. 2.

The Duke of Casigliano to Sir Henry Bulwer.

M. le Ministre, Florence, 16 Juin, 1852.

LA note datée du 11 du courant mois, que votre Excellence m'a adressée en y joignant la copie de la dépêche qu'elle a reçue de Lord Malmesbury relativement à l'affaire Mather, et de laquelle elle m'a donné connaissance préalable, a été sérieusement examinée dans le Conseil des Ministres, et soumise à la haute considération de mon Auguste Souverain.

Je dois avant tout, en répondant avec une égale franchise à la loyauté des déclarations de votre Excellence, établir que le Gouvernement de Son Altesse Impériale et Royale Monseigneur le Grand Duc a été douloureusement affecté et surpris à la réception de ces documens, et que mon Auguste Prince a partagé ce sentiment.

En étant chargé de vous signifier la pénible impression qui a été ressentie à cette lecture par mon Souverain et par les membres de son Gouvernment, je dois ajouter que ce dernier devait nécessairement regarder cette affaire comme terminée, après qu'elle avait été arrangée avec le Représentant officiel du Gouvernement Britannique, et que cette négociation avait reçu au sein du Parlement Anglais la sanction la plus explicite et la plus solennelle, avec des éloges flatteurs pour la conduite de cet honorable Agent.

Appuyé sur ces précédens, le Gouvernement Toscan avait lieu de s'attendre que nulle modification fût faite à la conclusion de cette affaire, telle que Mr. Scarlett l'avait acceptée, et le Gouvernement Britannique ne saurait oublier, ainsi qu'il résulte de la note de Mr. Barron, qui, pendant la maladie du Chargé d'Affaires, fonctionnait à sa place, note dont votre Excellence a bien voulu me communiquer un extrait, que l'indemnité pécuniaire accordée à Mr. Mather a été accompagnée par un acte généreux et spontané de la prérogative souveraine vis-à-vis des Messieurs Stratford, sujets Anglais, qui s'étaient rendus coupables de délit politique, acte dont d'ailleurs le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté la Reine de la Grande Bretagne, en cédant à un sentiment de juste convenance, a déjà exprimé à Son Altesse Impériale et Royale les remercîmens les plus formels.

Votre Excellence en convenant que la négociation avait été d'abord acceptée et justifiée par son Gouvernement, développe ensuite toutes les phases successives de cette affaire, rapporte les instructions qu'elle a reçues à ce sujet, et explique comment, d'après celles qui avaient été données à Mr. Scarlett lui-même, le Gouvernement Britannique a cru, ainsi que cela est déclaré dans la dépêche de Lord Malmesbury, devoir désavouer la conduite de son Représentant et annuler son ouvrage.

En évaluant ces explications, je m'empresse d'entamer le fond de la question, et de déclarer que le Gouvernement Grand-Ducal ne saurait jamais méconnaître ses droits et ses devoirs, en comptant en première ligne parmi eux, celui d'être juste envers tout le monde, et d'accorder aux sujets étrangers l'hospitalité la plus large et la plus cordiale; le cas exceptionnel de la juridiction spéciale à laquelle sont soumis les militaires faisant partie de la troupe auxiliaire Autrichienne, ne saurait apporter aucune atteinte à l'exercice de ses droits et de ses devoirs.

Le refus de Mr. Mather père de recevoir une indemnité quelconque ayant engagé le Gouvernement Britannique à donner à sa demande la nouvelle forme qui m'est, selon ses instructions, communiquée par votre Excellence, je dois premièrement remarquer, que comme la note de Mr. Scarlett qui a initié la conclusion de l'affaire a été maintenant désavouée complètement par le Gouvernement Anglais et est comme annulée, je reconnais que toute la correspondance qui s'ensuivit, et qui n'était qu'une conséquence du premier document, suit logiquement son sort.

Tout doit donc être considéré comme non-avenu, et ainsi nous pouvons passer outre, et je suis heureux de saisir avec empressement l'occasion de prier votre Excellence à bien vouloir être envers le Gouvernement de Sa Majesté son Auguste Reine l'organe des plus vifs regrets du Gouvernement Grand-Ducal pour cette malencontreuse affaire de la blessure reçue par Mr. Mather, qui ne saurait nullement troubler nos rapports si intimes, si anciens et si bienveillans, et dans laquelle, d'ailleurs, une satisfaction a été accordée par l'autorité militaire Autrichienne. L'harmonie parfaite qui a constamment uni les deux Gouvernemens, l'amitié qui règne entre les deux Augustes Souverains, et la sympathie qu'on a toujours ressentie en Toscane envers l'illustre nation Anglaise, doivent éloigner toute supposition contraire à ces sentimens, et le Gouvernement Toscan la repousse avec toute l'énergie et toute la sincérité des sentimens qu'il a toujours éprouvés.

Le Gouvernement Grand-Ducal, en se glorifiant d'identifier sa conduite avec ses sentimens, est toujours disposé à reconnaître l'obligation de maintenir les droits et de pourvoir à la sûreté des sujets Britanniques aussi bien que des autres sujets étrangers en Toscane par l'intermédiaire des tribunaux comme règle générale, et s'empresse de reconnaître le principe que ce devoir de tutelle devient pour le pouvoir exécutif d'autant plus impérieux dans ces cas exceptionnels, comme celui qui existe aujourd'hui à l'égard de la force auxiliaire Autrichienne en Toscane, qui ne sauraient être soumis aux tribunaux ordinaires. Il ne décline donc aucune des conséquences que cette tutelle lui impose.

Je me plais à reconnaître, M. le Ministre, le tact exquis et l'esprit conciliant dont votre Excellence a fait preuve dans cette conjoncture délicate, et j'ai la confiance qu'elle puisera dans mon langage la conviction que le Gouvernement Toscan, loin d'avoir abdiquée l'indépendance dont il est jaloux et fier, tient au contraire à en soutenir les droits et en exercer les devoirs.

Le Gouvernement éclairé et impartial de Sa Majesté la Reine de la Grande Bretagne partagera sans doute cette conviction, et rien ne saura désormais troubler la continuation de ces relations officielles et amicales, qui sont de vieille date, et que les deux Gouvernemens ont été toujours si heureux d'entretenir. De mon côté je serai fier de contribuer à resserrer ces liens, et ne doute pas que votre Excellence ne désire également de parvenir au même but.

La justice que votre Gouvernement aime à rendre au zèle et au talent de l'Honorable Mr. Scarlett, malgré le désaveu donné dans ce cas à sa conduite, m'engage à exprimer de la part du Gouvernement Grand-Ducal l'estime et la confiance que cet habile et excellent gentilhomme a su constamment mériter.

Je profite, &c.

(Translation.)

M. le Ministre, Florence, June 16, 1852.

THE note dated the 11th instant, which your Excellency has addressed to me, inclosing copy of the despatch which you have received from Lord Malmesbury, relative to the Mather affair, which despatch you had communicated to me previously, has been seriously examined in the Council of Ministers, and submitted to the high consideration of my august Sovereign.

I must in the first place, answering with an equal frankness the sincerity of your Excellency's declarations, state that His Imperial and Royal Highness the Grand Duke's Government has been painfully affected and surprised at the receipt of these documents, and that my August Prince has shared this sentiment.

Being charged to signify to you the painful impression which has been felt at their perusal by my Sovereign and the members of his Government, I must add that the latter was necessarily entitled to look upon this affair as terminated, after it had been arranged with the official Representative of the British Government, and that this negotiation had received in the English Parliament the most explicit and solemn sanction, with flattering eulogiums of the conduct of that honourable Agent.

Relying on these acts, the Tuscan Government had reason to expect that no modification would be made in the settlement of this affair, such as Mr. Scarlett had accepted it; and the British Government cannot forget that, as appears from the despatch of Mr. Barron, who acted in the place of the Chargé d'Affaires during his illness, of which despatch your Excellency has communicated to me an extract, the pecuniary indemnity accorded to Mr. Mather was accompanied by a generous and spontaneous act of the sovereign prerogative towards the Messrs. Stratford, English subjects, who had rendered themselves guilty of a political crime; for which act the Government of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, yielding to a sentiment of just propriety, has already expressed to His Imperial and Royal Highness the most formal thanks.

Your Excellency in admitting that the negotiation had been at first accepted and justified by your Government, then developes all the succeeding stages of this affair, quotes the instructions which your Excellency has received on the subject, and explains how, according to those which had been given to Mr. Scarlett himself, the British Government has thought itself obliged to disavow, as is declared in Lord Malmesbury's despatch, the conduct of its Representative, and annul his work. In appreciating these explanations, I hasten to come to the main points of the question, and to declare that the Grand Ducal Government will never ignore its rights and its duties, counting amongst the first thereof that of being just to every one, and of according to foreign subjects the most extended and cordial hospitality; nor can the exceptional case of the special jurisdiction to which the soldiers of the Austrian auxiliary force are subject, affect the exercise of those rights and of those duties.

The refusal of Mr. Mather to receive any indemnity having induced the British Government to give to its demand the new form which is, according to your instructions, communicated to me by your Excellency, I must first remark that the note of Mr. Scarlett, which led to the conclusion of the affair, having now been completely disavowed by the English Government, and being as annulled, I acknowledge that all the correspondence which followed, and which was only a consequence of the first document, shares logically the same fate. The whole is therefore to be considered as if it had never taken place, and passing on (to other subjects) I am happy to seize eagerly this occasion to beg you to be the means of expressing to the Government of Her Majesty your August Queen, the most lively regrets of the Grand Ducal Government at this unfortunate affair of the wound received by Mr. Mather, which affair ought not in any wise to disturb such ancient, such intimate, and such amicable relations as ours; and concerning which, moreover, a satisfaction has been given by the Austrian military authority. The perfect harmony which has constantly united the two Governments, the friendship which reigns between the two August Sovereigns, and the sympathy which has always been felt in Tuscany towards the illustrious English Nation, must dispel every supposition contrary to these sentiments, and the Tuscan Government rejects such a supposition with all the energy and all the sincerity of the sentiments which it has always experienced.

The Grand Ducal Government in priding itself on the identity of its conduct with its sentiments, is always disposed to accept the obligation of maintaining the rights and of providing for the safety of British subjects, as well as of other foreign subjects in Tuscany, by means of the tribunals, as a general rule; and hastens to recognise the principle that this duty becomes more imperative on the Executive Power in those exceptional cases, such as the one which now exists in respect to the Austrian auxiliary force in Tuscany, which cannot be submitted to the ordinary tribunals. It therefore declines none of the consequences imposed on it by that protection.

I am happy to acknowledge, M. le Ministre, the great tact and the conciliatory spirit of which your Excellency has given a proof in this delicate conjuncture; and I have the confidence that you will derive from my language a conviction that the Tuscan Government, far from having abdicated its independence, of which it is jealous and proud, is resolved, on the contrary, to uphold the rights and to exercise the duties of that independence.

The enlightened and impartial Government of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain will no doubt share this conviction; and nothing will henceforth be able to disturb the continuation of those official and amicable relations which are of ancient date, and which the two Governments have ever been so happy to maintain. For my part, I shall be proud to contribute to drawing closer these bonds, and I doubt not but that your Excellency desires equally to arrive at the same end.

The justice which your Government is desirous of rendering to the zeal and talent of the Honourable Mr. Scarlett, notwithstanding the disavowal given in this case to his conduct, induces me to express on behalf of the Grand Ducal Government, the esteem and confidence which that able gentleman has constantly merited.

I avail, &c.

No. 3.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 25.)

My Lord, Florence, June 18, 1852.

YOUR Lordship will read the correspondence which has taken place between the Duke of Casigliano and myself, and appreciate the difficulties which I have had to encounter previous to obtaining the note from the Duke, which I did myself the honour to forward.

In regard to the two most important of Her Majesty's Government's demands, the answer of the Duke of Casigliano seems to me in perfect conformity with the letter and spirit of those demands.

In the third there is a slight variation between the terms of my request and the terms of the Duke's reply, though it appears to me there is no essential difference between the fact consummated in the one case and the object sought for in the other.

Her Majesty's Government requires the withdrawal of the Duke of Casigliano's note of the 10th of May, and the cancelling of Mr. Scarlett's note of the 11th of May; and I am also authorized by your Lordship to withdraw Mr. Scarlett's note of the 6th of May, which gave rise to the subsequent correspondence.

The Duke of Casigliano accepts the disavowal of Mr. Scarlett's note of the 6th of May, and recognises that all the subsequent correspondence is annulled or annihilated by that disavowal, and is to be considered as if it had never existed.

The main point at issue is always the annihilation of Mr. Scarlett's proposal, and of the notes pro and con founded thereupon, with the view that neither the one nor the other can ever be hereafter cited; and, according to the Duke of Casigliano's present communication, not only is this point obtained, but a principle directly the reverse of that suggested by Mr. Scarlett, and laid down in reply by the Duke of Casigliano, is clearly and solemnly recognized.

With respect, however, to the especial form of withdrawing the notes in question, the Grand Duke has a personal and very strong objection. He considers it is a degradation which he has not merited, and an acknowledgment that he intended to inflict an insult which he never did intend to inflict.

The Duke of Casigliano's note, written by his authority, was not a note that he volunteered, it was a note elicited from him by a proposal from Her Majesty's Chargé d'Affaires; the answer was in the spirit of the proposal it replied to. An act of liberality was asked for: it was granted.

It might be improper to ask for this act as an act of liberality, but it cannot be deemed an offence, or at all events a voluntary offence to grant what is asked for.

Such is the argument of the Duke of Casigliano. I do not agree with it in one particular. I do not see any degradation in the act of mutually withdrawing notes any more than in the act of mutually destroying them; but at the same time, having obtained a complete concession on the really important matter hitherto under discussion, and which, by being thus settled, must prevent all future disputes similar to that concerning Mr. Mather, as well as change, as a matter of course, ere a very long time has elapsed, the peculiar nature of the foreign force at present employed in this country, I have considered that it would be injudicious to refuse to receive the Duke of Casigliano's note, and to break off a negotiation so difficult, and which is so successful in every other particular, on so comparatively small an issue.

I should add, that the Duke of Casigliano has begged me to intercede with Her Majesty's Government with respect to this matter; and I myself deem it not unwise or unfair to show some consideration for the Grand Duke's feelings on a mere matter of form, which is of no practical value, the more especially as it is always to be remembered that, however irregular the bargain, there was a bargain made with respect to the Messrs. Stratford, and those gentlemen are now free in consequence thereof, their liberation being, under any circumstances, an act of grace on the part of the Grand Duke, consented to under the idea that it would be agreeable to the British Government.

At all events the question is still left for your Lordship to decide.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 25.)

My Lord, Florence, June 19, 1852.

IN order to place beyond all doubt the real meaning of the Duke of Casigliano's reply of the 16th to my note of the 11th, I acknowledged it by the inclosed communication.

Inclosure in No. 4.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Duke of Casigliano.

Sir, Florence, June 17, 1852.

I HAVE received your Excellency's communication of the 16th, in reply to the one I had the honour of addressing to you on the 11th instant.

I understand by that communication:

1st. That the Tuscan Government, whilst painfully surprised at my communication to the effect that Mr. Scarlett's arrangement was disavowed, appreciates the reasons for that act which I developed.

2ndly. That the Government of His Imperial and Royal Highness recognizes that as the note of Mr. Scarlett of the 6th May is disavowed, it is in fact annulled, and that consequently all the correspondence which followed that note including your Excellency's of the 10th of May, and Mr. Scarlett's reply thereto, is annulled also, and is to be considered as if it had never been written.

3rdly. That the Tuscan Government expresses its profound regret at the violence inflicted on Mr. Mather, and repels all idea of that unhappy event being considered as in any wise testifying disrespect towards Her Majesty or the English Nation; and,

4thly. The Government of Tuscany recognizes in its fullest sense the duty of protecting British subjects, by the ordinary tribunals as a general rule, and by the executive authority in all those cases in which the ordinary tribunals cannot be applied to, including such as may arise during the present arrangement with Austria respecting the auxiliary troops of that Government stationed in the Tuscan Territory; and that His Imperial and Royal Highness accepts the full responsibility attached to the duty of the aforesaid protection.

With the understanding that I have thus repeated the sense of that note which I have just had the honour to receive, I beg to acknowledge the same, and to state that I shall instantly forward the correspondence which has passed between us to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who, I have no doubt, whilst attentively considering that correspondence, will set a due value on the expressions by which your Excellency so unequivocally denotes the desire to maintain the most friendly relations between our two Governments; and will also duly appreciate those which as strongly testify the determination of the Tuscan Government to maintain the independent position of the Grand Duchy of Tuscany.

It only remains for me to thank your Excellency for your courteous mention of the efforts which I have naturally made with the view of terminating so painful a question as that of which we have had to treat, in a manner honourable to all parties, and to assure you that I likewise set a proper value on the friendly desire which you have manifested throughout our negotiation, to satisfy the just expectations of my Government, whilst upholding the honour of your own.

I have, &c.

No. 5.

The Earl of Malmesbury to Sir Henry Bulwer.

Sir, Foreign Office, June 26, 1852.

IT is with great satisfaction that Her Majesty's Government have received your despatches of the 18th and 19th instant, which announce the results of your negotiation with the Court of Tuscany on the subject of the assault on Mr. Mather.

Her Majesty's Government entirely approve of the able and judicious manner in which you have brought this intricate affair to a conclusion, which, while affirming the important principle which they asserted as due to the British Nation, equally tends to maintain the dignity and independence of Tuscany herself.

You will inform the Duke of Casigliano that Her Majesty's Government have received with unfeigned satisfaction the expressions of regret which his Excellency has offered at those unfortunate occurrences which have lately caused an estrangement between two Courts which ancient associations and mutual interests should always unite in the most friendly alliance. You will also assure his Excellency, that in urgently contending for that recognition of responsibility from Tuscany which Mr. Scarlett so inconsiderately waived, Her Majesty's Government felt assured that they were consulting not less the honour and independence of the Tuscan Government than the protection due to British subjects. Until lately these have always found hospitality and protection in the Grand Ducal territory; and Her Majesty's Government earnestly hope that the exceptional position in which the Tuscan Government is now placed by the apparently necessary presence of a foreign auxiliary army, will induce the Tuscan Government to be even more jealous than ever to assert its independence by a ready and attentive recognition of international law.

Her Majesty's Government consent to cede the point urged by the Duke of Casigliano, and agree to consider the two notes of the 10th and 11th of May as cancelled.

You will read this despatch to his Excellency, and assure him of the sincere desire of Her Majesty's Government to maintain with the Court of Tuscany the most friendly relations.

I am, &c.

No. 6.

Sir Henry Bulwer to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 28.)

My Lord, Florence, June 21, 1852.

I THINK it right to make known to your Lordship that I have heard a fact, upon good authority, which may in some degree account for, though it can in nowise excuse, the conduct of the Austrian officer towards Mr. Erskine Mather on the 29th of December.

This fact is, that two days previous, when some Austrian troops were marching through the streets of Florence, in somewhat the same manner as on the day in question, a sergeant was struck with a knife by some person in the crowd jostling against him; a circumstance which tended to make the officers more than usually scrupulous as to persons who appeared to be Italians following and coming too near to their ranks.

I am not aware whether this incident has ever before been brought to your Lordship's notice; but as it bears upon the case, and has been communicated to me by a person likely to be well informed, and on whose veracity I can rely, I have deemed it fair to state it to your Lordship.

I have, &c.

The Hon. P. C. Scarlett to the Earl of Malmesbury.—(Received June 19.)

My Lord, Florence, June 11, 1852.

I HAVE just read Mr. Mather's letter to your Lordship, published in the newspapers, in which he alleges that the suggestion of a money compensation came from the Legation.

Such a suggestion was never made by me or by my authority, or with my knowledge or consent, nor have I any reason to believe that any suggestion of the sort was made by any person attached to or connected with the Legation, nor do I know by whom it was made, if it was made.

I beg also to take this opportunity of remarking, that it appears by my despatches, that Mr. Mather, in the presence of two gentlemen whom I sent to him, Lord Frederic Kerr and Sir John Orde, declined to receive any apology. It is certain that the officer who struck Mr. Mather with his sword, was ready, in consequence of my request made to the Austrian Envoy, with the sanction and by the command of the Commander-in-chief of the Austrian army, Prince de Liechtenstein, to express his regret at having done so, whilst under the apprehension that Mr. Mather intended to assault him.

Your Lordship will also remember that the officer with whom Prince de Liechtenstein considered the fray to have begun, and who first struck Mr. Mather, was punished by being put under arrest and strongly reprimanded.

The private honour of Mr. Mather, which was in some degree identified with that of the public, would thus have received the fullest atonement that any gentleman could require.

It was in consequence of Mr. Mather's repudiation of all apology, that I called for an inquiry, which I understood to be Mr. Mather's expressed desire to the English gentlemen above mentioned.

This course I thought expedient, upon the further ground that besides bringing to light what really happened in the scuffle, it would give time to the British Government to consider the proper course to be pursued.

I did all I could to forward the inquiry, and I also recommended an advocate of the highest reputation, and offered in my public capacity, to defray the expense of the proceeding.

I take upon myself the entire responsibility of accepting 1000 francesconi by way of damages. My reasons for thus deviating from your Lordship's instructions, by which I was to obtain at least 500*l*., are, that having repeatedly demanded this latter sum, I was unable to obtain any more than 1000 francesconi, which was at length offered by the Tuscan Government.

If I had persisted in demanding more, it is certain that they would have persisted in their protest against all liability; and, under the present peculiar circumstances of the Tuscan Government, I felt that Her Majesty's Government could not consistently with generosity and justice and the truth of the facts, insist on her liability as an independent Power.

If I am mistaken in this view, I can only express my regret that I did not leave this matter to be settled by another hand; but I hope I may be forgiven the expression of my doubt whether any negotiator could have obtained a larger compensation in the shape of money from the Tuscan Government without very serious extremities.

I have, &c.

(Signed) P. CAMPBELL SCARLETT.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April last, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has by a necessary consequence ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

Note.—The additions of the quantities, &c. in the Twelfth Month, to those of the preceding Eleven Months will not be found in all cases to agree with the Yearly Totals, on account of errors now corrected that were contained in the Returns made from time to time from the Outports.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April last, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* The Quantity and Declared Value of Wrought Copper, as stated in the Account for the Year ending 5th January 1850, do not agree with the Quantity and Value Exported in that Year as now stated. The discrepancy is occasioned by an error of classification, a part of the Exports of the Year ending 5th January 1850 having properly belonged to the head of Sheet Copper, to which Head it is applied in this Account.

The Quantities and Amounts of Values inserted in the foregoing Account, for the Year ended 5th January 1850 and 1851, do not exactly correspond with those which would result from a mere incorporation of the Twelve Monthly Returns rendered successively within the Year, the Sums now exhibited having undergone a final revision and correction on the making up of the registry for the annual period. The Quantities and Amounts inserted for the Year ended 5th January 1852, on the other hand, being taken from the Monthly Accounts alone, are liable to future alteration when the process of revision just referred to shall have been accomplished for the Annual Period which terminated on the 5th ultimo.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851 been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has by a necessary consequence ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851 been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has by a necessary consequence ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has by a necessary consequence ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April 1851, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April last, been chargeable with the same rate of Duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom-House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

The foregoing Statement is founded upon Returns transmitted throughout the current year from the different Ports of the United Kingdom. Such Returns exhibit the gross quantities of Articles entered for consumption, and the gross amount of Duty thereon, without reference to deductions for Over-entries, &c. This Statement will therefore not agree, in all points, with the Annual Statement to be compiled after the final adjustment of the Custom-house Records shall have been made.

* Coffee, of whatever growth, having, since 15th April last, been chargeable with the same rate of duty, the distinction between the Produce of British Possessions and Foreign Produce, has, by a necessary consequence, ceased in the Entries at the Custom House. In Accounts rendered for the future, therefore, that distinction can only be approximatively indicated, by showing, under separate heads, the Quantities imported from British and Foreign Territories respectively.

The Quantities and Amounts of Values inserted in the foregoing Account, for the year ended 5 January 1851, do not exactly correspond with those which would result from a mere incorporation of the Twelve Monthly Returns rendered successively within the Year, the sums now exhibited having undergone a final revision and correction on the making up of the registry for the annual period. The Quantities and Amounts inserted for the year ended 5 January 1852, on the other hand, being taken from the monthly accounts alone, are liable to future alteration, when the process of revision, just referred to, shall have been accomplished for the annual period which terminated on the 5th ultimo.
